Russ Tanks Enter E. Berlin

U.S. Will Ask Soviet To End Interference

Strong Protest Against Unilateral Actions Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will formally ask the Soviet Union Friday to put an immediate end to interference with American officials who visit East Berlin.

Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson received instructions to lodge an official protest in Moscow, State Department spokesman Lincoln White said.

White told a news conference Thompson was instructed "to discuss the unilateral actions taken by the Soviet side" in East Berlin where East German Communist police have requested U.S. officials to identify themselves when crossing the line dividing the two parts of the city.

"You can describe it as a protest," White said when asked what the American diplomat will deliver to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

White said he did not know whether Thompson will hand over a written note or make oral representations. Officials familiar with the envoy's instructions said Thompson will protest most vigorously against a series of incidents at the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint, the only crossing now open for Allied personnel in the city.

Thompson's move will be a diplomatic followup to a protest made Wednesday by Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commander in Brelin, to Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, his Soviet opposite number. The Soviet officer rejected the protest and insisted the East Germans have a right to control Allied traffic over the borderline.

Officials said Thompson will make these arguments:

1. The United States insists its officials—whether in uniform or wearing civilian clothes — must have unrestricted right to visit East Berlin without being stopped to identify themselves if they ride automobiles bearing special license plates.

2. Continued harrassment of Americans in Berlin will hardly create an atmosphere favorable for future talks on the over-all question of Berlin and Germany.

3. The Soviet Union should comply with its responsibility in the city by manning the Friedrichstrasse crossing, rather than letting the East Germans do it.

Yugo Novelist Nobel Winner

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Ivo Andric, 69, a Yugoslav author who wove the dark currents of modern life into a powerful trilogy of novels drawn from his country's troubled past, was awarded the 1961 Nobel Prize for Literature Thursday.

A prewar diplomat who was Yugoslavia's last minister to Hitler's Germany, Andric now is a member of Communist Yugoslavia's Parliament. He lives quietly in a Belgrade apartment where he wrote "The Bridge on the Drina," "The Travnik Chronicle" and "Miss" while Nazi soldiers patrolled the streets outside during the wartime occupation.

He is the first Yugoslav citizen ever to win a Nobel Prize. In Belgrade he called the news "something solemn, an honor for me and for Yugoslav literature."

Newsmen were waiting in Belgrade to tell him he had won the $48,300 prize as he returned from a hospital checkup. The soft-spoken, bespectacled author said he was pleasantly surprised and would try to make the trip to Stockholm to accept the award in person.

Final U.N. Action Set On Plea To Moscow

U.S. Fallout Hazard Not Acute Thus Far

But Continuous Surveillance Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fallout levels from Soviet nuclear explosions thus far do not warrant undue public concern or drastic action, a U.S. Public Health Service statement said Thursday.

However, the statement added that present levels "do warrant continuous, intensive surveillance by federal, state and local governments and consideration of protective measures which might be taken if they should be found necessary."

The statement was issued as the health service began an extraordinary two-day meeting to consider what steps might be taken on all levels of government if fallout hazards become acute.

Attending the closed-door meeting were about 100 federal, state and local health officers representing every state. The health service said special problems that may develop in particular areas were receiving attention.

As the meeting convened, U.S. Weather Bureau officials said the cloud of initial fallout radiation thrown off by the Soviet Union's superbomb blast of Monday was rolling steadily across the North Pacific.

The main part of the cloud was estimated to be about 100 miles wide and moving generally eastward at an altitude of about 30,000 feet.

"We don't know yet whether it will move north into Alaska, or straight ahead over Canada or the northern United States," said Dr. Lester Machta, a Weather Bureau fallout specialist. He said the course will depend on wind systems.

The cloud contains only a tiny part, perhaps a fraction of one per cent, of the nuclear ashes released by the explosion. Most of the radiation is much higher in the stratosphere and will not fall to earth until next spring.

Dr. Francis Weber, chief of the Radiological Health Division of the health service, told newsmen that while information still is lacking about fallout effects from Monday's big blast, any significant hazard from the Soviet test series probably would not develop until next spring.

Chrysler Offer Deadline Set By Auto Union

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther has given the Chrysler Corp. until 10 a.m. Friday to submit to the United Auto Workers Union a new economic offer on wages and benefits.

"It has to meet the pattern of the Ford and General Motors settlements," the UAW president declared Thursday.

In making this announcement, during a recess in contract negotiations, Reuther made no mention of strike action.

But the union previously set what amounts to a deadline in showdown bargaining with Chrysler by calling a meeting of its International Executive Board for 8 p.m. Friday. The board will consider authorizing a strike against Chrysler if complete agreement on a new three-year contract is not in sight then.

The UAW's 60,000 members in Chrysler plants already have voted in favor of strike action if necessary to back up their demands.

Reuther said he was insisting on an agreement in principle on the broad economics of wages and benefits by Friday.

'Substitute' Baby-Sitter Disappears With Infant

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (UPI)—A 2-month-old baby was kidnaped three days ago from the home of a penniless, 17-year-old mother of four children while she was job-hunting, police disclosed Thursday.

A warrant charging child stealing was issued for the arrest of a 37-year-old "substitute" baby-sitter.

Jacqueline Marie Willett, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Willett, disappeared Monday afternoon but the disappearance was not reported to police until Wednesday.

Police sought Mrs. Margaret McKeown, who they said had a history of illness and was two months pregnant.

"I want her back more than anything in the world," said the young, black-haired mother.

Mrs. Willett, whose husband is in jail on bad check charges, said she didn't even have enough money to make a 55-cent telephone call to nearby Yankton, S.D., to tell him that their youngest daughter was missing.

Jacqueline Marie was wrapped in a yellow blanket when last seen.

Mrs. Willett said she didn't report the child missing at first because "I was afraid ... I was scared."

She said the babysitter's husband, Darrell McKeown, kept "telling me not to worry," that his wife would return with the child.

Mrs. Willett, her voice seemingly calm despite her ordeal, said she had asked Mrs. McKeown, who lived across the hall, to babysit because he regular babysitter had refused to work for her because she was broke.

Assembly Call To Cancel Big A-Blast Slated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly will consider Friday approval of an appeal to Moscow to cancel a 50-megaton H-bomb test. The appeal won overwhelming endorsement Wednesday night in the assembly's Political Committee, and ratification is regarded as certain.

Sponsors of the eight-nation resolution containing the appeal succeeded Thursday in getting the issue on the assembly agenda.

They forwarded their request for urgent action to assembly President Mongi Slim, who agreed to list it on the items of business for the session.

New Members To Be Admitted

The assembly is expected to take up first admission of Outer Mongolia and Mauritania as the United Nation's 102nd and 103rd members, then plunge directly into consideration of the appeal.

At a private meeting Thursday the eight sponsors—Canada, Japan, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Iceland, Iran and Pakistan—laid plans to counter any delaying tactics by Soviet-bloc countries similar to those which developed in the Political Committee.

They are working against the month-end deadline mentioned by Soviet Premier Khrushchev for testing the 50-megaton bomb.

Committee Vote 75 To 10

The Political Committee recommended ratification of the eight-nation resolution by a vote of 75-10 with one abstention—far more than the two-thirds majority required for assembly ratification.

Fifteen members were absent when the vote was taken and two of them—Niger and El Salvador —indicated Thursday they would vote yes in the assembly.

They spoke in the Political Committee, where general debate resumed on the nuclear test ban issue.

U.N. Votes Probe Of Plane Crash That Killed Dag

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The General Assembly Thursday voted a United Nations investigation of the plane crash which killed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold while on a peace mission to the Congo.

The assembly approved a 10-nation resolution calling for appointment of a five-man international commission to look into the circumstances surrounding the crash in the Rhodesian jungle last month. The vote was 97-0.

The resolution noted there is worldwide concern over the disastrous end of the flight taken in the service of the United Nations. The sponsors urged the inquiry to "dispel the doubts and apprehensions" in regard to the accident.

Hammarskjold and 15 members of his party were killed when their chartered DC-6B crashed near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia. The secretary general was going to Ndola from Leopoldville, The Congo, to discuss a cease-fire with Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

Gen. Gursel Elected President Of Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—Military junta chief Gen. Cemal Gursel Thursday was elected president of Turkey by parliament.

Gursel has ruled Turkey as acting chief of state since the military coup 17 months ago that overthrew the government of ex-premier Adnan Menderes. Menderes and most of his government later went on trial for violating the constitution and Menderes was executed.

The junta ordered national elections earlier this month to return the nation to civilian rule. But the Oct. 11 voting failed to give a majority to any of the nation's four parties, three of which are considered successors to Menderes' banned Democratic party.

Tight Spending Policy Decreed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged his Cabinet and agency heads Thursday to be "careful and frugal" in their spending so the government can reduce this year's deficit and come up with a balanced budget next year.

Ticking off steps he said his administration already has taken to save money, Kennedy added that appropriations by Congress "are a ceiling, not a mandate to spend."

He laid down specific guideposts to be followed to save dollars: Postpone or limit government programs that normally would be desirable; halt any speedup in spending which had been undertaken to combat the recession; and hold down the number of government workers "to the minimum consistent with getting the job done."

"I am especially desirous that new programs or expansions of existing programs be undertaken with caution and deliberation," Kennedy said.

The President enunciated this tight fiscal policy in a statement he presented at a White House meeting of the Cabinet and heads of 13 agencies. The text was made public while the session was in progress.

The statement did not make it clear whether Kennedy meant to cut down the payroll by laying off federal workers. But Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the administration's policy has been to make reductions when it is determined that fewer employes can handle the work of an agency or department.

"There is no question," Kennedy said, "that employment can be held substantially below the levels which would be possible under the funds authorized by Congress. I expect each of you to make such efforts."

During the year that ended last June 30, there was an average of 2,372,455 civilian employes on the government's $13.7-billion payroll.

Saudi Arabia Urges JFK-Khrush Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Saudi Arabia Thursday proposed a summit meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, to be followed by a special session of the General Assembly, both devoted exclusively to disarmament.

Saudi Arabian Minister of State Ahmad Shukairy made the suggestion before the assembly's main political committee. He offered no formal resolution to initiate action, however.

Farmers Guard Barns Against Naked Madman

MALTON, Ont. (AP)—Farmers in the Tullamore area 10 miles north of here are guarding their barns these nights and watching for a tall man who runs naked through the fields spreading fire by the dim light of the new moon.

Police blame him for destruction of three barns, the deaths of 39 head of cattle and the burning of a corn stack.

Two families have fled the district since the raids began.

Constable Martin Maze of Gore Township says he and the provincial police know the man—that he is 6-feet-3 and weighs 240 pounds, but they haven't been able to prove their suspicions.

Possible Plot To Kidnap Gable Baby Reported

ENCINO, Calif. (UPI) —Police set up a special patrol Thursday to protect the infant son of the late screen idol Clark Gable from a reported kidnap plot.

Officers rushed to the Gable estate here Thursday morning after an unemployed publicist reported he heard four men discussing what seemed to be a plot to kidnap 7-month old John Clark Gable.

An electrically controlled protection device on the front gate of the 22-acre estate prevented officer from gaining admittance until after they talked on the telephone with Gable's widow, Kay.

Mrs. Gable said she had been sleeping in the nursery with her son because it was his nurse's night out.

The purported kidnap plot was related to police by David T. Treganowan, 34, a recent arrival from Pittsburgh, Pa. He said he was an unemployed industrial publicist.

Treganowan volunteered to take a lie detector test and afterwards police said it was indicated he was telling a straight story.

Treganowan said he was in a downtown Los Angeles restaurant and overheard four men discussing the Gable baby.

Two Ships, 101 Aboard, Collide And Catch Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two freighters with 101 persons aboard collided and caught fire Thursday in thick fog about 60 miles northwest of San Francisco.

Both steamed slowly toward San Francisco Thursday night while crewmen fought the flames and attempted to halt the inrush of water. They were under escort of a Coast Guard cutter and planes.

The Norwegian ship Hoegh Cape, outbound from San Francisco with a crew of 56, and the inbound New Zealand vessel Waitemata with a crew of 45 collided just after 4 p.m. EDT 27 miles northwest of Pt. Reyes and 13 miles offshore.

The Hoegh Cape reported heavy damage and fire in the forward area in Nos. 1 and 2 holds. Her skipper, Capt. Johns Hansen, reported at 8 p.m. EDT that the vessel had a slight port list and had gone down a foot by the bow in the past hour.

Hansen was steaming on a 125 degree course to keep the damaged starboard bow away from the sea.

There were no reports of casualties.

Capt. W. J. Hill, of the Waitemata reported a fire in the forecastle that probably could be contained there plus damage to the bow that caused her to take water.

The Coast Guard said neither reported immediate danger of sinking. Agents for both vessels reported they carried no passengers.

Both were steaming toward San Francisco at about five knots.

Slide Smashes Train In Japan; 31 Killed

OITA, Japan (UPI)—A landslide crashed down on a passenger train Wednesday and killed 31 persons, police said Thursday.

Most of the 70 passengers were high school students on their way home earlier than usual because of heavy rains. Officials said the rain caused the slide.

Molotov Under New Fire In Communist Congress

MOSCOW (AP)—Old Bolshevik V. M. Molotov was accused at the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress Thursday of assailing Premier Khrushchev's new 20-year program to win Communist support abroad.

Otto Kuusinen, member of the ruling party Presidium, pressed home the congress theme that the time has come to oust Stalin's foreign minister from the Communist party.

The latest attack on Molotov came as the people read for the first time in reports of congress proceedings that he had written a letter to the party Central Committee calling Khrushchev's program "antirevolutionary, pacifist and revisionist."

Molotov and other members of the antiparty group, who broke with Khrushchev in 1957 over party policy and were ousted from positions of power, have been under ceaseless attack by speakers at the congress.

Members of the group even were brought into a discussion of internal security by Alexander Shelepin, chief of the Soviet security police. He told the congress 4,500 Western agents had been found in the Soviet Union in recent years, but gave no details. He coupled this report with an attack on ex-Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, a member of the group.

The news of the letter Molotov sent to the Central Committee was the center of public interest, however. Its contents startled the Soviet people. Never before had such a letter critical of powerful ruling officials been made public in the Soviet Union.

Armor Takes Up Positions Near Border

Blunt Reply To U.S. Sorties; E. German Note Demands Halt

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet armored unit rolled into East Berlin Thursday night and took up positions a few hundred yards from the border.

Eyewitnesses saw a dozen Soviet tanks with Russian crews line up behind the East German state opera house on Unter den Linden.

It was a blunt reply to the U.S. Army's dramatic armed thrusts this week demonstrating the Allied right to circulate in East Berlin without interference from the East German Communists.

The Soviet armored unit came in only hours after the latest U.S. armed thrust into East Berlin.

Three times American military police squads with fixed bayonets have forced the border into East Berlin. They cleared the way for U.S. occupation civilians who refused to submit to East German controls.

The actions were carried out under the guns of heavy U.S. Patton tanks lined up on the West side of the border.

Red Police Step Aside

The East German police stepped aside in each case and allowed the MPs to escort civilians past the border without resistance. Not a shot was fired.

The East German government said the United States alone was responsible for the threat of war created by the escort sorties.

In a note delivered to the American Embassy in Prague, Czechoslovakia, the Red German regime contended that the United States "has no rights in the German Democratic Republic, including its capital (East Berlin)."

The note demanded that the American sorties be stopped at once and those responsible for them be punished. The United States does not recognize the East German government and always ignores such notes. Other American thrusts into East Berlin were believed planned for the next few days.

However, the presence of a Soviet tank unit a few blocks from the Friedrichstrasse crossing would put such sorties in an entirely new light.

Darkness Used As Cover

West Berlin police said the tanks drove through the center of East Berlin under cover of darkness and that East German police closed off part of Unter den Linden as the tanks moved into position.

The Communist tank movements followed by a few hours the withdrawal of U.S. tanks and personnel carriers from the checkpoint and a demand from the East German regime that the United States cease its armed entries.

In the note to U.S. officials the East German regime declared that such American action endangered peace.

The Soviet tanks were the first seen in the heart of East Berlin since Red tanks helped crush the 1953 anti-Communist revolt.

The West German Defense Ministry said the Red army has 10 armored divisions in East Germany, but they have been kept well away from the capital in recent years.

There also are two East German armored divisions equipped with Soviet-made tanks. These normally appear in Berlin only

Blast Results In Three Deaths

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—An explosion and fire rocked a three-block area in the nearby mill towns of Homestead and Munhall Thursday resulting in the death of three persons and injury to 25 others.

Fire officials said the blast was triggered by an accumulation of gas in a Homestead cleaning shop located near the Munhall line. One shop employe was killed and six were injured, two critically. Firemen estimated damage at about $500,000.

The dead employe was identified as Annabelle Eisley, 40, of Homestead, whose body was recovered from the rubble about an hour after the blast. The other two victims were Homestead police officer Joseph Lescak and Joseph Passafiume, 75, who lived near the cleaning shop.

Lescak died of a broken neck suffered when he lost control of his cruiser while speeding to the explosion site and crashed through a showroom window. Passafiume died of a heart attack brought on by excitement and shock.

Tight Spending Policy Decreed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged his Cabinet and agency heads Thursday to be "careful and frugal" in their spending so the government can reduce this year's deficit and come up with a balanced budget next year.

Ticking off steps he said his administration already has taken to save money, Kennedy added that appropriations by Congress "are a ceiling, not a mandate to spend."

He laid down specific guideposts to be followed to save dollars: Postpone or limit government programs that normally would be desirable; halt any speedup in spending which had been undertaken to combat the recession; and hold down the number of government workers "to the minimum consistent with getting the job done."

"I am especially desirous that new programs or expansions of existing programs be undertaken with caution and deliberation," Kennedy said.

The President enunciated this tight fiscal policy in a statement he presented at a White House meeting of the Cabinet and heads of 13 agencies. The text was made public while the session was in progress.

The statement did not make it clear whether Kennedy meant to cut down the payroll by laying off federal workers. But Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the administration's policy has been to make reductions when it is determined that fewer employes can handle the work of an agency or department.

"There is no question," Kennedy said, "that employment can be held substantially below the levels which would be possible under the funds authorized by Congress. I expect each of you to make such efforts."

During the year that ended last June 30, there was an average of 2,372,455 civilian employes on the government's $13.7-billion payroll.

Saudi Arabia Urges JFK-Khrush Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Saudi Arabia Thursday proposed a summit meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, to be followed by a special session of the General Assembly, both devoted exclusively to disarmament.

Saudi Arabian Minister of State Ahmad Shukairy made the suggestion before the assembly's main political committee. He offered no formal resolution to initiate action, however.

Farmers Guard Barns Against Naked Madman

MALTON, Ont. (AP)—Farmers in the Tullamore area 10 miles north of here are guarding their barns these nights and watching for a tall man who runs naked through the fields spreading fire by the dim light of the new moon.

Police blame him for destruction of three barns, the deaths of 39 head of cattle and the burning of a corn stack.

Two families have fled the district since the raids began.

Constable Martin Maze of Gore Township says he and the provincial police know the man—that he is 6-feet-3 and weighs 240 pounds, but they haven't been able to prove their suspicions.

Possible Plot To Kidnap Gable Baby Reported

ENCINO, Calif. (UPI) —Police set up a special patrol Thursday to protect the infant son of the late screen idol Clark Gable from a reported kidnap plot.

Officers rushed to the Gable estate here Thursday morning after an unemployed publicist reported he heard four men discussing what seemed to be a plot to kidnap 7-month old John Clark Gable.

An electrically controlled protection device on the front gate of the 22-acre estate prevented officer from gaining admittance until after they talked on the telephone with Gable's widow, Kay.

Mrs. Gable said she had been sleeping in the nursery with her son because it was his nurse's night out.

The purported kidnap plot was related to police by David T. Treganowan, 34, a recent arrival from Pittsburgh, Pa. He said he was an unemployed industrial publicist.

Treganowan volunteered to take a lie detector test and afterwards police said it was indicated he was telling a straight story.

Treganowan said he was in a downtown Los Angeles restaurant and overheard four men discussing the Gable baby.

Two Ships, 101 Aboard, Collide And Catch Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two freighters with 101 persons aboard collided and caught fire Thursday in thick fog about 60 miles northwest of San Francisco.

Both steamed slowly toward San Francisco Thursday night while crewmen fought the flames and attempted to halt the inrush of water. They were under escort of a Coast Guard cutter and planes.

The Norwegian ship Hoegh Cape, outbound from San Francisco with a crew of 56, and the inbound New Zealand vessel Waitemata with a crew of 45 collided just after 4 p.m. EDT 27 miles northwest of Pt. Reyes and 13 miles offshore.

The Hoegh Cape reported heavy damage and fire in the forward area in Nos. 1 and 2 holds. Her skipper, Capt. Johns Hansen, reported at 8 p.m. EDT that the vessel had a slight port list and had gone down a foot by the bow in the past hour.

Hansen was steaming on a 125 degree course to keep the damaged starboard bow away from the sea.

There were no reports of casualties.

Capt. W. J. Hill, of the Waitemata reported a fire in the forecastle that probably could be contained there plus damage to the bow that caused her to take water.

The Coast Guard said neither reported immediate danger of sinking. Agents for both vessels reported they carried no passengers.

Both were steaming toward San Francisco at about five knots.

Slide Smashes Train In Japan; 31 Killed

OITA, Japan (UPI)—A landslide crashed down on a passenger train Wednesday and killed 31 persons, police said Thursday.

Most of the 70 passengers were high school students on their way home earlier than usual because of heavy rains. Officials said the rain caused the slide.

Molotov Under New Fire In Communist Congress

MOSCOW (AP)—Old Bolshevik V. M. Molotov was accused at the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress Thursday of assailing Premier Khrushchev's new 20-year program to win Communist support abroad.

Otto Kuusinen, member of the ruling party Presidium, pressed home the congress theme that the time has come to oust Stalin's foreign minister from the Communist party.

The latest attack on Molotov came as the people read for the first time in reports of congress proceedings that he had written a letter to the party Central Committee calling Khrushchev's program "antirevolutionary, pacifist and revisionist."

Molotov and other members of the antiparty group, who broke with Khrushchev in 1957 over party policy and were ousted from positions of power, have been under ceaseless attack by speakers at the congress.

Members of the group even were brought into a discussion of internal security by Alexander Shelepin, chief of the Soviet security police. He told the congress 4,500 Western agents had been found in the Soviet Union in recent years, but gave no details. He coupled this report with an attack on ex-Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, a member of the group.

The news of the letter Molotov sent to the Central Committee was the center of public interest, however. Its contents startled the Soviet people. Never before had such a letter critical of powerful ruling officials been made public in the Soviet Union.

Armor Takes Up Positions Near Border

Blunt Reply To U.S. Sorties; E. German Note Demands Halt

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet armored unit rolled into East Berlin Thursday night and took up positions a few hundred yards from the border.

Eyewitnesses saw a dozen Soviet tanks with Russian crews line up behind the East German state opera house on Unter den Linden.

It was a blunt reply to the U.S. Army's dramatic armed thrusts this week demonstrating the Allied right to circulate in East Berlin without interference from the East German Communists.

The Soviet armored unit came in only hours after the latest U.S. armed thrust into East Berlin.

Three times American military police squads with fixed bayonets have forced the border into East Berlin. They cleared the way for U.S. occupation civilians who refused to submit to East German controls.

The actions were carried out under the guns of heavy U.S. Patton tanks lined up on the West side of the border.

Red Police Step Aside

The East German police stepped aside in each case and allowed the MPs to escort civilians past the border without resistance. Not a shot was fired.

The East German government said the United States alone was responsible for the threat of war created by the escort sorties.

In a note delivered to the American Embassy in Prague, Czechoslovakia, the Red German regime contended that the United States "has no rights in the German Democratic Republic, including its capital (East Berlin)."

The note demanded that the American sorties be stopped at once and those responsible for them be punished. The United States does not recognize the East German government and always ignores such notes. Other American thrusts into East Berlin were believed planned for the next few days.

However, the presence of a Soviet tank unit a few blocks from the Friedrichstrasse crossing would put such sorties in an entirely new light.

Darkness Used As Cover

West Berlin police said the tanks drove through the center of East Berlin under cover of darkness and that East German police closed off part of Unter den Linden as the tanks moved into position.

The Communist tank movements followed by a few hours the withdrawal of U.S. tanks and personnel carriers from the checkpoint and a demand from the East German regime that the United States cease its armed entries.

In the note to U.S. officials the East German regime declared that such American action endangered peace.

The Soviet tanks were the first seen in the heart of East Berlin since Red tanks helped crush the 1953 anti-Communist revolt.

The West German Defense Ministry said the Red army has 10 armored divisions in East Germany, but they have been kept well away from the capital in recent years.

There also are two East German armored divisions equipped with Soviet-made tanks. These normally appear in Berlin only

Blast Results In Three Deaths

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—An explosion and fire rocked a three-block area in the nearby mill towns of Homestead and Munhall Thursday resulting in the death of three persons and injury to 25 others.

Fire officials said the blast was triggered by an accumulation of gas in a Homestead cleaning shop located near the Munhall line. One shop employe was killed and six were injured, two critically. Firemen estimated damage at about $500,000.

The dead employe was identified as Annabelle Eisley, 40, of Homestead, whose body was recovered from the rubble about an hour after the blast. The other two victims were Homestead police officer Joseph Lescak and Joseph Passafiume, 75, who lived near the cleaning shop.

Lescak died of a broken neck suffered when he lost control of his cruiser while speeding to the explosion site and crashed through a showroom window. Passafiume died of a heart attack brought on by excitement and shock.

President Will Shun Political Scrap With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy does not intend to get into a political scrap with Dwight D. Eisenhower in the current election campaigns. Nor does he intend to fire straightaway at Richard M. Nixon in his Los Angeles speech next month.

As leader of the party in power, Kennedy does intend to boost its candidates and programs.

Sources familiar with thinking at the White House and at Democratic headquarters so describe Kennedy's position in the light of these developments:

Former President Eisenhower's stumping for Republican candidates and his fresh attacks on the Kennedy administration; and Kennedy's warmly expressed support this week of Democratic candidates in New Jersey and Texas, where Eisenhower is actively working for their GOP rivals.

Kennedy reportedly has been surprised at some of the points Eisenhower has hit in the last six weeks. Over that period the former president has charged Kennedy with indecision and uncertainty on foreign problems, scoffed at his pet Peace Corps project, questioned his space program, and denounced his fiscal policies as confusing and extravagant.

While surprised on occasion, Kennedy is understood to be neither dismayed nor especially disturbed. As a veteran in politics, he regards criticism from the leader of the opposition as natural. With Nixon, the former vice president and GOP presidential candidate, now an announced candidate for governor of California, the Democrats picture Eisenhower as the leader.

Retaliation has been left to others, who jumped to their stations Thursday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Eisenhower was engaging in "campaign oratory" and noted the government wound up one fiscal year in the Eisenhower administration with the highest peacetime deficit ever, $12.5 billion. Mansfield said the country was in "a state of recession" when Kennedy took over from Eisenhower, but now is prosperous.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said Kennedy is trying to develop a bipartisan approach to crises in Berlin and elsewhere.

"I can see why the President doesn't want to get into any political sparring match with the former president," Gore said. "Gen. Eisenhower can indulge now in the luxury of making political statements, but the President can't afford to do that any more than Eisenhower could when he was president."

The East German police — whose controls are considered illegal by the Western Allies — meekly stepped aside as three U.S. military police jeeps and an Army-licensed sedan roared over the border under cover of American tanks.

Kishi's Assailant Given 3-Year Term

TOKYO (AP)—Tasiuke Aramaki, who stabbed former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi last year, was sentenced Thursday to three years in prison by the Tokyo Higher Court. The 66-year-old leader of a right-wing organization stabbed and injured Kishi at a party at the prime minister's official residence July 4, 1960, celebrating election of present Premier Hayato Ikeda as head of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party. A lower court on April 5 had sentenced Aramaki to a prison term of two years.

Border Barrier? Not For 2 Of 4

BERLIN (AP)—Four American women tourists tested the Communist border Thursday. Two breezed through without a hitch. Two were detained for six hours.

Nancy and Mary Barber, redhaired sisters from Joliet, Ill., found the Communist barriers no problem. Two hours after American tanks left the crossing point, the girls drove up in their rented car to the East German checkpoint.

They checked out with American military police, showed their passports to East German police, were saluted and waved through for a night at the East Berlin opera.

It was no giggling matter for two other women. They crossed over to the Communist sector earlier in the day and were detained for six hours when they tried to return two hours later.

The women declined to give reporters their names or any other details.

Hike In Teamster Dues Ruled Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge ruled Thursday that an $18 million a year dues increase approved by the Teamsters' convention last July was legal and should be allowed to take effect next Jan. 1.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff rejected a protest that the $1-a-month dues hike for each of the union's estimated 1.5 million members was imposed in violation of the Landrum-Griffin law.

SUTTER CREEK, Calif. (UPI) —Four children who were sleeping in one bed were burned to death Thursday in a flash fire that swept through a home near this Sierra foothill community.

900-Man Georgia Unit Arrives At Ft. Meade

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The 111th Signal Battalion, from Washington, Georgia, arrived here Thursday to begin intensified training.

The unit, commanded by Lt. Col. Erskine E. Wickersham, has an authorized strength complement of over 900 men, an Army spokesman said.

The Georgia battalion brings to 21 the number of units to begin training here since President Kennedy announced plans for an increased call-up. The 21 units represent over 5,000 men.

The second largest unit here, the 983rd Engineer Battalion, of Bellaire, Ohio, arrived last Friday. That unit has approximately 700 men.

Two Frederick, Md., units arrived Wednesday. The 558th and 559th signal companies have an authorized strength of 200 men each.

Lagging In War, S. Vietnamese Told By Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The people of South Viet Nam were told by their president they have been lagging in the war against Communist rebels.

President Ngo Dinh Diem warned the nation Thursday "We have not fulfilled entirely our duties" in the fight. In a special message marking the nation's sixth anniversary as a republic, Diem called for sacrifice and unity.

This followed by one day the departure of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who came here to investigate the situation as President Kennedy's military adviser. Before leaving, Taylor said South Viet Nam must mobilize all its national resources for the fight against the Communists. He is not expected to recommend the use of significant numbers of American troops here now. Taylor now is in Bangkok, Thailand, for military briefings.

Diem's speech set a somber tone for a day that had in the past been marked by celebrations. This year's public ceremonies were canceled because of mounting guerrilla warfare and serious floods in the south. Saigon's streets were quiet.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Key military officers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization gave Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor a secret rundown Thursday on Communist threats to this area and SEATO's capability to meet them.

President Kennedy's military adviser also conferred with Premier Sarit Thanarat of Thailand on problems facing non-Communist nations in Southeast Asia.

Mrs. Schweinhaut Backed For Senate

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Margaret C. Schweinhaut was nominated Thursday by the Montgomery County Democratic State Central Committee to fill a vacant seat in the State Senate.

Mrs. Schweinhaut is a county Democratic leader and a delegate to the General Assembly.

The committee's recommendation, considered tantamount to appointment by Gov. Tawes, was on a 4-2 vote, with one absentention.

Mrs. Schweinhaut would succeed Edward S. Northrop, now a U. S. District Judge.

Authority Over Silver Policy Taken From Mint

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has quietly removed virtually all authority over silver policy from the Bureau of the Mint, soon to be headed by a woman long associated with silver partisans.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon issued a directive Oct. 9 transferring policy powers on domestic gold and silver questions to Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa. The only announcement was routine publication of the directive in the Federal Register.

Dillon also set up a new office of domestic gold and silver operations. To direct this office, he named Leland Howard, the veteran assistant director of the mint.

The actions were a blow to the hopes of many American and Canadian silver producers. The mining interests had been jubilant a few weeks earlier when President Kennedy named Miss Eva B. Adams as director of the mint.

In the past, the mint chief has had authority, at least nominally, to determine official policy on silver. The fixing of such policy will be particularly important in the months just ahead because the Treasury is fast running out of "free" silver not required as currency backing.

The Treasury has been selling this "free" silver to fabricators and other users, and silver producers have been urging the government to raise the selling price or stop selling silver.

Because of Dillon's action, the Bureau of the Mint now is barely more than a manufacturing operation, producing coins for the United States and some other countries.

Miss Adams was administrative assistant to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., and held a similar post with Bible's predecessor, the late Pat McCarran.

In her Senate job, she was closely associated with those promoting legislation to benefit silver producers—an important lobby in Nevada—and was on close terms with some leading figures in the industry.

The nomination of Miss Adams was sent to Congress a few days before adjournment and was confirmed after a prefunctory hearing.

Since Jan. 1, the Treasury stockpile of "free" silver has dropped from 123.5 million ounces to 47.3 million ounces. The remaining supply is being purchased rapidly by silver users at the department's current selling price of about 91.5 cents an ounce. Once the Treasury stockpile is exhausted, the industry anticipates the market price of silver will rise considerably.

Vagrant Freed, Gets Dog Back

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)— Karo Gamble walked out of a jail cell Thursday to a joyful reunion with a little dog that won him his freedom.

The penniless vagrant, freed from a 90-day jail term because of his love for the mongrel puppy, picked up his pet at the city pound Thursday night.

"Lord have mercy, I got the best friend I ever had," Gamble cried.

The 56-year-old Negro hugged and kissed the pup, named Waterloo. The dog wagged her tail and licked her master.

"I'm too happy to cry," Gamble said. "I got my dog back. Lord, I love it."

Gamble was looking forward to a new start in a turbulent life. He was as happy Thursday as he was miserable a week ago when police came to his cardboard shack on a river bank, arrested him on a vagrancy charge and carted away Waterloo.

Gamble thought then his only friend was going to be destroyed. He fell to his knees and hugged the dog. An alert newspaper photographer caught the drama, and his picture tugged the heartstrings of hundreds of persons across the nation.

Mine Pumping Ban Lifted By Pa. Board

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The State Sanitary Water Board granted limited authority Thursday to Glen Alden Corp. to resume pumping mine water into the north branch of the susquehanna River.

Earlier full scale pumping in the Wilkes-Barre area had been blamed by state agencies, including the water board, for an extensive fish kill along a 55-mile stretch of the river.

Meeting in special session, the board lifted a cease and desist order it had issued against the firm Oct. 17, following the fish kill.

The board said Glen Alden could resume pumping under its present drainage certificate which limits the discharge of mine water to 618,000 gallons in a 24-hour period.

Bailey Labels Attack By GOP "Propaganda"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey Thursday labeled a Republican attack on Kennedy administration information policies as "propaganda" and inaccurate.

Bailey said the Democrats under President Kennedy have made "solid and significant" progress toward greater freedom of information in the federal government.

He replied in an article in Editor & Publisher to an article by Republican National Chairman William E. Miller in the same publication earlier this month. Miller wrote, in the newspaper trade journal, that the administration was guilty of censorship, favoritism, and attempting to use reporters as "political propaganda conduits."

The Democratic chairman said "Mr. Miller's mudballs, compounded of half-truths, inaccuracies and irrelevancies, missed the mark."

Declaring "secrecy grew rather than diminished" under the Eisenhower administration, Bailey said progress toward greater freedom of information in the Kennedy regime has taken the following three forms:

"Positive action on individual problems, most of them involving complaints against abuses by the previous administration.

"Major policy changes which will furnish lasting guarantees of the right of the public to know about its government.

"A basic difference in attitude on the part of Kennedy appointees, stemming from the President's clearly stated convictions about the right to information, which has had the effect of preventing the growth of secrecy in day-to-day operations."

900-Man Georgia Unit Arrives At Ft. Meade

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The 111th Signal Battalion, from Washington, Georgia, arrived here Thursday to begin intensified training.

The unit, commanded by Lt. Col. Erskine E. Wickersham, has an authorized strength complement of over 900 men, an Army spokesman said.

The Georgia battalion brings to 21 the number of units to begin training here since President Kennedy announced plans for an increased call-up. The 21 units represent over 5,000 men.

The second largest unit here, the 983rd Engineer Battalion, of Bellaire, Ohio, arrived last Friday. That unit has approximately 700 men.

Two Frederick, Md., units arrived Wednesday. The 558th and 559th signal companies have an authorized strength of 200 men each.

World's only Plateresque cathedral is the Cathedral of Toledo, Ohio, inspired by those of old Spain.

Lagging In War, S. Vietnamese Told By Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The people of South Viet Nam were told by their president they have been lagging in the war against Communist rebels.

President Ngo Dinh Diem warned the nation Thursday "We have not fulfilled entirely our duties" in the fight. In a special message marking the nation's sixth anniversary as a republic, Diem called for sacrifice and unity.

This followed by one day the departure of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who came here to investigate the situation as President Kennedy's military adviser. Before leaving, Taylor said South Viet Nam must mobilize all its national resources for the fight against the Communists. He is not expected to recommend the use of significant numbers of American troops here now. Taylor now is in Bangkok, Thailand, for military briefings.

Diem's speech set a somber tone for a day that had in the past been marked by celebrations. This year's public ceremonies were canceled because of mounting guerrilla warfare and serious floods in the south. Saigon's streets were quiet.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Key military officers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization gave Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor a secret rundown Thursday on Communist threats to this area and SEATO's capability to meet them.

President Kennedy's military adviser also conferred with Premier Sarit Thanarat of Thailand on problems facing non-Communist nations in Southeast Asia.

Mrs. Schweinhaut Backed For Senate

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Margaret C. Schweinhaut was nominated Thursday by the Montgomery County Democratic State Central Committee to fill a vacant seat in the State Senate.

Mrs. Schweinhaut is a county Democratic leader and a delegate to the General Assembly.

The committee's recommendation, considered tantamount to appointment by Gov. Tawes, was on a 4-2 vote, with one absentention.

Mrs. Schweinhaut would succeed Edward S. Northrop, now a U. S. District Judge.

Authority Over Silver Policy Taken From Mint

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has quietly removed virtually all authority over silver policy from the Bureau of the Mint, soon to be headed by a woman long associated with silver partisans.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon issued a directive Oct. 9 transferring policy powers on domestic gold and silver questions to Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa. The only announcement was routine publication of the directive in the Federal Register.

Dillon also set up a new office of domestic gold and silver operations. To direct this office, he named Leland Howard, the veteran assistant director of the mint.

The actions were a blow to the hopes of many American and Canadian silver producers. The mining interests had been jubilant a few weeks earlier when President Kennedy named Miss Eva B. Adams as director of the mint.

In the past, the mint chief has had authority, at least nominally, to determine official policy on silver. The fixing of such policy will be particularly important in the months just ahead because the Treasury is fast running out of "free" silver not required as currency backing.

The Treasury has been selling this "free" silver to fabricators and other users, and silver producers have been urging the government to raise the selling price or stop selling silver.

Because of Dillon's action, the Bureau of the Mint now is barely more than a manufacturing operation, producing coins for the United States and some other countries.

Miss Adams was administrative assistant to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., and held a similar post with Bible's predecessor, the late Pat McCarran.

In her Senate job, she was closely associated with those promoting legislation to benefit silver producers—an important lobby in Nevada—and was on close terms with some leading figures in the industry.

The nomination of Miss Adams was sent to Congress a few days before adjournment and was confirmed after a prefunctory hearing.

Since Jan. 1, the Treasury stockpile of "free" silver has dropped from 123.5 million ounces to 47.3 million ounces. The remaining supply is being purchased rapidly by silver users at the department's current selling price of about 91.5 cents an ounce. Once the Treasury stockpile is exhausted, the industry anticipates the market price of silver will rise considerably.

Vagrant Freed, Gets Dog Back

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Karo Gamble walked out of a jail cell Thursday to a joyful reunion with a little dog that won him his freedom.

The penniless vagrant, freed from a 90-day jail term because of his love for the mongrel puppy, picked up his pet at the city pound Thursday night.

"Lord have mercy, I got the best friend I ever had," Gamble cried.

The 56-year-old Negro hugged and kissed the pup, named Waterloo. The dog wagged her tail and licked her master.

"I'm too happy to cry," Gamble said. "I got my dog back. Lord, I love it."

Gamble was looking forward to a new start in a turbulent life. He was as happy Thursday as he was miserable a week ago when police came to his cardboard shack on a river bank, arrested him on a vagrancy charge and carted away Waterloo.

Gamble thought then his only friend was going to be destroyed. He fell to his knees and hugged the dog. An alert newspaper photographer caught the drama, and his picture tugged the heartstrings of hundreds of persons across the nation.

Mine Pumping Ban Lifted By Pa. Board

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The State Sanitary Water Board granted limited authority Thursday to Glen Alden Corp. to resume pumping mine water into the north branch of the susquehanna River.

Earlier full scale pumping in the Wilkes-Barre area had been blamed by state agencies, including the water board, for an extensive fish kill along a 55-mile stretch of the river.

Meeting in special session, the board lifted a cease and desist order it had issued against the firm Oct. 17, following the fish kill.

The board said Glen Alden could resume pumping under its present drainage certificate which limits the discharge of mine water to 618,000 gallons in a 24-hour period.

Bailey Labels Attack By GOP "Propaganda"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey Thursday labeled a Republican attack on Kennedy administration information policies as "propaganda" and inaccurate.

Bailey said the Democrats under President Kennedy have made "solid and significant" progress toward greater freedom of information in the federal government.

He replied in an article in Editor & Publisher to an article by Republican National Chairman William E. Miller in the same publication earlier this month. Miller wrote, in the newspaper trade journal, that the administration was guilty of censorship, favoritism, and attempting to use reporters as "political propaganda conduits."

The Democratic chairman said "Mr. Miller's mudballs, compounded of half-truths, inaccuracies and irrelevancies, missed the mark."

Declaring "secrecy grew rather than diminished" under the Eisenhower administration, Bailey said progress toward greater freedom of information in the Kennedy regime has taken the following three forms:

"Positive action on individual problems, most of them involving complaints against abuses by the previous administration.

"Major policy changes which will furnish lasting guarantees of the right of the public to know about its government.

"A basic difference in attitude on the part of Kennedy appointees, stemming from the President's clearly stated convictions about the right to information, which has had the effect of preventing the growth of secrecy in day-to-day operations."

Rt. 40 Freedom Ride Still On, CORE Official Says

BALTIMORE (AP) — Freedom riders will test discrimination in restaurants along Route 40 as scheduled Nov. 11 unless Maryland officials make a definite proposal beforehand to seek statewide legislation outlawing segregation, a spokesman said Thursday.

"So far there's been no definite proposal from any quarter," said Julius Hobson, regional official of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

"If there is one — such as for a special session of the legislative assembly in November — there is a possibility the ride will be called off.

"But we're not going to call off the ride for some vague promise in March."

The Maryland Legislature will meet in regular session in February. There has been talk that if it doesn't pass a bill requiring hotels and restaurants to serve Negroes that Gov. Tawes will recall the Legislature to special session for that purpose alone.

The governor has rejected requests to summons the Legislature before February to consider a bill on public accommodations.

The governor, the state commission on interracial problems and a Democratic state candidate for U.S. Senator have all urged CORE to cancel the freedom ride.

They claimed it would provoke antagonism and delay integration rather than promote it.

The interracial commission, which includes Negro members, instead invited CORE representatives to meet and "map strategy for our common goal."

Hobson said the commission's invitation had been forwarded to New York headquarters where a decision whether to accept it will be made Saturday.

Four Airmen Held On Phony Money Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four airmen were held Thursday on charges of attempting to pass what police said were the worst counterfeit $20 bills they had ever seen.

"They may as well have used old stage money," said Police Inspector William T. Murphy. "The bills had no green at all — they were simply black and white."

Secret service agents said indications were that the phony stuff was turned out in a print shop near the Patuxent (Md.) Naval Air Station, where the airmen are stationed.

Charged with possession of, and trying to pass, counterfeit money were Airmen John Louis Feraldi, Stephen Ziemienczyk and Terry Douglas Strope, all 18, and Larry Gene Brisbin, 19.

Mrs. Judith Ann Strope, 18, and Mrs. Gladys E. Brisbin, 17, wives of two of the airmen, also were picked up but were released after investigation. The women live in Lexington Park, Md., near the air station.

Police and secret service gave this rundown of events:

Feraldi and Ziemienczyk paid a waitress in a restaurant last night with a $20 bill. Suspicious, she showed it to the proprietor. The airmen left without waiting for their change.

Twenty minutes later, the pair hailed Cabbie Willis L. Corbett, 31, and asked to be taken to another restaurant.

"This fellow (later identified as Feraldi) took a $20 bill from his shoe and I gave him $19 change," Corbett recalled. "He handed me a 50 cent tip and I drove on toward home.

"Along the way I took another look at the bill and saw it was as phony as two left shoes. I drove to the fifth precinct and showed it to Lt. (Robert H.) Wolf."

Police accompanied the cabbie back to near where he had left his passengers. Feraldi and Ziemienczyk were arrested near a parked car. In the car, police found Brisbin, Strope and their wives.

Stuffed under the car's rear seat divider, $1,700 of worthless bills were found.

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Sinus trouble, pouring cool water on burns, and poor diet that leads to bad grades in school are subject for focus on health.

Sinus Season

With the fall season of colds and influenza comes the possibility of sinus trouble for many people. Doctors advise the best defense is early treatment.

Early sinus problems like headache are often masked by the general ill feeling of a cold or the flu. Later the headache may not be the most prominent complaint. In fact, most specialists find that only a tenth of their patients who complain of sinus headaches actually have sinusitis, says an article in the British journal, Lancet.

Early treatment should be aimed at improving the patient's general condition and at relieving the problem locally. Local heat and mildly medicated steam inhalations are helpful in draining and ventilating the sinuses. Nose drops may be useful in mild cases, but prolonged use can result in a chronic congestion similar to allergic reactions.

First Aid For Burns

Cool water may be an effective first-aid device for burns and scalds, and a pain-killer as well, says Dr. O. J. Ofeigsson, of Reykjavik, Iceland.

Run cold tap water over the mild burn, he suggests, or soak it in cold water, milk, sea water or some other clean, harmless fluid. Switch to clean water as soon as possible, if you choose a substitute in an emergency.

Under the tap, take care that the water pressure does not break or injure the skin. Avoid breaking blisters and don't apply dressings. Keep the burned area in the water until the pain has ceased.

Well Fed Scholar

Poor nutrition may be the cause of some bad grades in school, says Dr. George M. Cummins Jr. of Northwestern University.

Bad eating habits can lead to physical and emotional problems that can impair scholastic performance, he suggested. Crowded conditions in some school cafeterias often lead children to a lunch-time diet of candy bars and doughnuts.

Navy Will Test New Life-Energy Battery

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Ocean tests will be made next January by the Navy of a revolutionary new battery using sea organisms for "fuel."

Dr. Gilson H. Rohrback, president of Magma Products Inc. said Wednesday that the Navy had declassified part of the new concept in generating electronic power from life-energy or life-processing.

Rohrback said Magna had been working on the project for two years. He said the ocean tests probably would be made off San Diego, Calif. They would be practical tests of "bio-power" units and would seek to confirm that biological or life processing can be used to produce electric power.

Rohrback said models of the new batteries already had enabled his team of 50 scientists to successfully reproduce the life cycle.

U.S. Scientist Takes Issue With Britons

GENEVA (UPI —A leading American scientist said Wednesday the Russians could explode a 50-megaton nuclear weapon every two or three days for a year before the radioactive iodine content in ordinary milk became dangerous.

Dr. Austin M. Brues, director of biological and medical research at the Argonne, Ill., National Laboratory, was commenting on a report by the British Medical Research Council Tuesday which said the contamination of milk was the most serious consequence of the recent Russian nuclear tests.

Brues is attending a conference of East-West scientists which is measuring statistics of sickness caused by atomic radiation against statistics of illness caused by other factors. Object of the session is to try to gauge just how dangerous the long-term effects of atomic radiation are.

Asks Battles End

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—The managing editor of Ave Maria, a national Roman Catholic weekly, called today for an end to the "stupid battle" between liberals and conservatives within the church. Donald J. Thorman wrote in the current issue of the weekly published by the Holy Cross Fathers that there is always room for healthy differences of opinion within the church. But he deplored "the irresponsible manner in which the controversy is being carried out."

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Sinus trouble, pouring cool water on burns, and poor diet that leads to bad grades in school are subject for focus on health.

Sinus Season

With the fall season of colds and influenza comes the possibility of sinus trouble for many people. Doctors advise the best defense is early treatment.

Early sinus problems like headache are often masked by the general ill feeling of a cold or the flu. Later the headache may not be the most prominent complaint. In fact, most specialists find that only a tenth of their patients who complain of sinus headaches actually have sinusitis, says an article in the British journal, Lancet.

Early treatment should be aimed at improving the patient's general condition and at relieving the problem locally. Local heat and mildly medicated steam inhalations are helpful in draining and ventilating the sinuses. Nose drops may be useful in mild cases, but prolonged use can result in a chronic congestion similar to allergic reactions.

First Aid For Burns

Cool water may be an effective first-aid device for burns and scalds, and a pain-killer as well, says Dr. O. J. Ofeigsson, of Reykjavik, Iceland.

Run cold tap water over the mild burn, he suggests, or soak it in cold water, milk, sea water or some other clean, harmless fluid. Switch to clean water as soon as possible, if you choose a substitute in an emergency.

Under the tap, take care that the water pressure does not break or injure the skin. Avoid breaking blisters and don't apply dressings. Keep the burned area in the water until the pain has ceased.

Well Fed Scholar

Poor nutrition may be the cause of some bad grades in school, says Dr. George M. Cummins Jr. of Northwestern University.

Bad eating habits can lead to physical and emotional problems that can impair scholastic performance, he suggested. Crowded conditions in some school cafeterias often lead children to a lunch-time diet of candy bars and doughnuts.

U.S. Scientist Takes Issue With Britons

GENEVA (UPI —A leading American scientist said Wednesday the Russians could explode a 50-megaton nuclear weapon every two or three days for a year before the radioactive iodine content in ordinary milk became dangerous.

Dr. Austin M. Brues, director of biological and medical research at the Argonne, Ill., National Laboratory, was commenting on a report by the British Medical Research Council Tuesday which said the contamination of milk was the most serious consequence of the recent Russian nuclear tests.

Brues is attending a conference of East-West scientists which is measuring statistics of sickness caused by atomic radiation against statistics of illness caused by other factors. Object of the session is to try to gauge just how dangerous the long-term effects of atomic radiation are.

Asks Battles End

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—The managing editor of Ave Maria, a national Roman Catholic weekly, called today for an end to the "stupid battle" between liberals and conservatives within the church. Donald J. Thorman wrote in the current issue of the weekly published by the Holy Cross Fathers that there is always room for healthy differences of opinion within the church. But he deplored "the irresponsible manner in which the controversy is being carried out."

Navy Will Test New Life-Energy Battery

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Ocean tests will be made next January by the Navy of a revolutionary new battery using sea organisms for "fuel."

Dr. Gilson H. Rohrback, president of Magma Products Inc. said Wednesday that the Navy had declassified part of the new concept in generating electronic power from life-energy or life-processing.

Rohrback said Magna had been working on the project for two years. He said the ocean tests probably would be made off San Diego, Calif. They would be practical tests of "bio-power" units and would seek to confirm that biological or life processing can be used to produce electric power.

Rohrback said models of the new batteries already had enabled his team of 50 scientists to successfully reproduce the life cycle.

Need Of Snow Removal Plan Stressed

Communities, large or small, must have a plan to deal effectively with the problem of snow removal.

The point was emphaized by speakers during the first panel discussion of the 14th annual Maryland Municipal League convention which opened its activities yesterday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel grill room. The first general session of the convention was conducted yesterday afternoon in City Hall auditorium.

Participating in the first panel, which followed the showing of a film on urban renewal, were John Gray, director of Public Works, Rockville; Mayor Frederick Richardson of Mt. Rainier; and Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer of Cumberland. Joseph Axelrod, deputy director of the Department of Planning, Baltimore, and former city engineer of Annapolis, was moderator.

A question and answer period followed.

Large or small, communities' problems are similar in regard to snow removal with the major tasks being the movement of traffic and keeping emergency routes open.

Gray said that in the case of Rockville which has 78 miles of streets and is largely residential, 70 per cent join in a mass exodus from the municipality to metropolitan Washington and nearby in the mornings and return in the evenings. Plowing, salting and cindering by Rockville forces in cooperation with State Roads Commission crews keep the main routes open to traffic and during the worst storm last year, streets were all clean within 36 hours. Rockville last year had a total of 42 inches of snow.

One problem cited by the Rockville official was the blocking of private driveways with plowed snow which results in many complaints. However, he said, no solution has been found for it although the municipality is trying to work out something.

No community can develop a snow removal plan more extensive than its equipment, Gray said, and condition of the equipment also must be considered along with the type of personnel and the stockpiling of salt and cinders.

Personnel must be trained, he said, and areas must be established within sections of the community to prevent overlapping of work.

A major advancement in the removal of snow has been communications systems which are connected to snow removal equipment.

"You can have all kinds of plans on paper, but none will work without a system of communication," Gray said.

Rockville also has a snow emergency plan which is set in motion by the city manager when snow reaches a depth of two inches and is still falling. An ordinance passed in February of this year, too late to show much effect last year but expected to prove itself this winter, establishes alternate - side parking during a snow emergency so streets can be cleared and gives the municipality authority to impound any vehicles in violation, Gray said.

Mayor Richardson said Mt. Rainier has 15 miles of paved streets and police set snow removal plans in action. The city clears its streets by plowing and has a sidewalk plow which clears snow for pedestrians in the business district. Again, clearing of emergency routes was emphasized and also areas around fire hydrants.

Nuzum described conditions faced in Cumberland last year — one of the worst in recent history — and also pointed to the communications system which Cumberland has in its vehicles. He said the city has 72 miles of paved streets and 15 miles of unpaved streets and is also responsible for U. S. Routes 220 and 40 which go through the city. The city begins its winter preparations the first of November by placing cinder barrels at trouble spots and at all times works in close cooperation with the State Roads Commission and Allegany County Roads Department.

He described the warning setup devised by the local Street Department to alert crews when snow begins falling. Cinders, salt and a mixture of cinders and calcium chloride are used on primary arteries until snow reaches a depth of two inches. Plows are then put in operation.

Nuzum said the city had 71.7 inches of snow last winter and despite the heavy fall, main arteries were kept open.

Under consideration by the city, Nuzum continued, is a snow removal ordinance which will make it mandatory for vehicles to have either snow treads or chains when a depth of one inch is reached. One car without chains or treads can block an entire line of traffic, he said.

Also under consideration is prohibition of parking on many streets which would be accomplished through cooperation between the Police and Street departments.

Axelrod, in summing up the discussion, said it was shown that no matter how large or small, a city must have a plan to succeed in removing snow.

It was also pointed out that the matter of so-called "practical politics" must be ignored and that it is better for a few to be fined for violating a snow ordinance than for the whole community to suffer.

everything but the name!

You've heard rumors, talk, guesses about an altogether new kind of Ford to be announced in a few weeks. Now here are the facts. You will want to consider them carefully, because this car is like no other new car you've seen this year—unique in size, unique in price, unique in the advantages it offers you. Body, engine, transmission, suspension—the very proportions of the automobile—everything is completely new, everything but the name. We sincerely believe it will be one of the great Fords of all time.

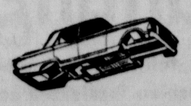
The name is both familiar and famous. We have called it the Fairlane 500 after one of the most popular Fords ever built – but only the name is the same. In every other respect nothing's borrowed, everything's new.

Just right for just about everybody, the newest of Fords is in a class by itself. It will bring you big-car room, luxury and performance in a car that competes with the compacts in price and economy. It is priced well below the Fords that used to bear its name. It is priced under many compacts.

New unitized body shaves bulk...saves room



As a first step in building the new Fairlane, Ford engineers took a fresh look at the proportions of the American automobile—and realized it was time to change the relationship between inside room and exterior size.

They started with a full-size passenger compartment. They would not settle for less – because this was designed to be, above all, a fine car.

At the same time they wanted to get rid of all automotive fat – those extra inches of steel that make some cars hard to park and expensive to run.

The solution: a completely new unitized body that gives you room on the inside and eliminates bulk on the outside.

New room, new comfort, new luxury

On the inside the new Fairlane 500 is actually bigger, roomier than the majority of the cars on the road today.

On the outside everything is different. With one foot less to park, the Fairlane 500 is the trimmest, sleekest car you have ever seen or driven.

Inside and out, it is in every respect a fine car, giving you every essential and every important luxury you want in full-size fine cars. Even the smallest details have been planned with a jeweler's concern for precision.

Twice-a-year maintenance

A major step toward the absolutely trouble-free car, the new Fairlane has all the service-saving features made famous by the Galaxie. Routine service has now been reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, no more than twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest.

The new Fairlane 500 will travel 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You go two years, or 30,000 miles, without changing engine coolant-antifreeze. The car adjusts its own brakes, saving you those time-wasting trips to a garage.

Introducing the world's first economy V-8

A new foundry technique, perfected by the world's largest maker of V-8's, made possible a completely new V-8 engine of precision-cast iron, almost as light as engines made of less economical, less durable lightweight metal. Developed exclusively for the new Fairlane, the new Challenger V-8 is the world's happiest combination of performance, economy and durability. Its motion is crisp and quick and eager . . . its thrift is a delightful surprise.

If you're looking for even greater savings, your natural engine choice would be the new Fairlane Six. Designed by the engineers who built the record-breaking Falcon, it establishes a new standard of economy for full-size cars. Many compacts would envy its gas mileage figures.

The first of a new generation of automobiles

America's newest car has much to offer that you have never seen before. You have seen cars that were supposed to be in a new class—the intermediates—but which turned out on closer inspection to be slightly enlarged compacts or somewhat abbreviated big cars. The car you haven't seen yet is the first fine car that puts economy first. It will be at your Ford Dealer's in a few weeks. Be sure to see it then—it's quite a car.

'Round and 'round she goes — to shapelier legs — on a real bicycle or an imaginary one.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fat Or Skinny, Exercise Is Good Figuring

A young reader who signs herself "Skinny" writes for advice on building up her bone-thin legs . . . but she confesses that she is AFRAID to exercise because such exertion might cause her to lose weight. "This I can't stand!" says she.

She has nothing to be afraid of. Exercise is not a reducing diet. Exercise alone won't drop a pound off anybody unless they eat so little that their gymnastics rob calories they need for maintenance.

Anyone who eats that little wouldn't have enough energy for exercise anyway . . . although she might if she could borrow enough pep to have a complete physical check-up and a little lecture from her doctor on appetite-boosting and weight-gaining.

What exercise is more likely to promote is a slight increase in weight, only because vigorous effort and improved blood circulation just naturally make a body hungry. Exercising dieters have to allow for this feeling and learn to live with it or satisfy it in a low-calorie manner.

So, go ahead, "Skinny," exercise away! You need them for essentially the same reasons dieters do. You want to tone up those under-developed, unused muscles and redistribute your weight into prettier proportions.

Try these for shaplier legs: Stand on the floor, feet apart. Now, rise on the balls of your feet. Turning your torso to the right, bend your knees and lower yourself slowly to a deep squat. Rise slowly and repeat the exercise with torso turned left.

For your second exercise, stand pigeon-toed, hands on hips, and rise to your toes. Knees bent, slowly lower your body until your knees are pushed together. In this position, tense your muscles as a strong man flexes his biceps. Then, rise slowly.

These and any other exercises you've heard about for slimming legs are equally good for building up under-developed legs. So, your legs can have a regular workout in many different ways.

Some of the best ways can be more fun than work, as you can read for yourself in my booklet, "Dance Through a Week To Beauty." To get a copy, write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't overlook the hidden advantages in sports, either. Riding a bicycle is an excellent conditioner for thighs and ankles. Roller Skating and ice skating can do wonders for thighs and calves.

If all this activity makes you hungry, raid the ice box! It's a well-earned bonus that will make you forget, some happy day, that you ever called yourself that depreciated nickname, "Skinny."

CHICAGO (UPI) — Principals and counselors in more than 4,000 high schools were asked Thursday to help the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) find students with special abilities. John M. 'Round and 'round she goes — to shapelier legs — on a real bicycle or an imaginary one.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fat Or Skinny, Exercise Is Good Figuring

A young reader who signs herself "Skinny" writes for advice on building up her bone-thin legs . . . but she confesses that she is AFRAID to exercise because such exertion might cause her to lose weight. "This I can't stand!" says she.

She has nothing to be afraid of. Exercise is not a reducing diet. Exercise alone won't drop a pound off anybody unless they eat so little that their gymnastics rob calories they need for maintenance.

Anyone who eats that little wouldn't have enough energy for exercise anyway . . . although she might if she could borrow enough pep to have a complete physical check-up and a little lecture from her doctor on appetite-boosting and weight-gaining.

What exercise is more likely to promote is a slight increase in weight, only because vigorous effort and improved blood circulation just naturally make a body hungry. Exercising dieters have to allow for this feeling and learn to live with it or satisfy it in a low-calorie manner.

So, go ahead, "Skinny," exercise away! You need them for essentially the same reasons dieters do. You want to tone up those under-developed, unused muscles and redistribute your weight into prettier proportions.

Try these for shaplier legs: Stand on the floor, feet apart. Now, rise on the balls of your feet. Turning your torso to the right, bend your knees and lower yourself slowly to a deep squat. Rise slowly and repeat the exercise with torso turned left.

For your second exercise, stand pigeon-toed, hands on hips, and rise to your toes. Knees bent, slowly lower your body until your knees are pushed together. In this position, tense your muscles as a strong man flexes his biceps. Then, rise slowly.

These and any other exercises you've heard about for slimming legs are equally good for building up under-developed legs. So, your legs can have a regular workout in many different ways.

Some of the best ways can be more fun than work, as you can read for yourself in my booklet, "Dance Through a Week To Beauty." To get a copy, write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't overlook the hidden advantages in sports, either. Riding a bicycle is an excellent conditioner for thighs and ankles. Roller Skating and ice skating can do wonders for thighs and calves.

If all this activity makes you hungry, raid the ice box! It's a well-earned bonus that will make you forget, some happy day, that you ever called yourself that depreciated nickname, "Skinny."

Local Church To Hear Talk On Evangelism

Rev. Dr. Donald M. Salmon, executive secretary of the Department of Evangelism of the United Christian Missionary Society of the Christian Church, will speak at services Sunday at First Christian Church here.

Rev. Ralph Burnett, pastor, said Rev. Dr. Salmon will discuss evangelism at the 10:40 a. m. and 7 p. m. services.

Ordained a minister in 1927, Rev. Dr. Salmon is a graduate of Bethany (W. Va.) College and holds a divinity degree from Yale University Divinity School. He also attended the Pacific School of Divinity and has been awarded an honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Bethany College.

Rev. Dr. Salmon served student pastorates at Power, W. Va.; Crafton, Pa., and Milford, Conn. Following his ordination, he served churches at Bellaire, Ohio; Eureka, Ill., and Seattle, Wash., before being named to head the newly-created Department of Evangelism.

The United Society, under which he operates, serves the majority of the 8,000 Christian churches in North America, and their missions in this country and 11 other countries.

The society is unique in Protestantism in that it combines under one board the church work in evangelism, home and foreign missions, religious education and social welfare.

In India, jungle is applied to great tracts of uncultivated land — usually damp — covered with trees and a dense undergrowth of shrubs, vines and grass.

North and South reached an excellent slam contract today, but declarer had to play with great care to overcome both the adverse trump break and the "killing lead."

The bidding was sound. When South raised North's response, the latter sensed a slam and showed the ace of hearts to probe further. South now rebid his spades and North took charge of the situation via Blackwood consigning the hand to six spades when he learned his side was off an ace.

West opened the five of clubs on which East played the king and continued with the ace at trick two, forcing dummy to ruff. The ace of spades revealed the bad news in trumps, and made it look for all the world as though East had a sure trick. However, declarer hit upon an ingenious method of bringing home the contract.

He cashed dummy's ace and king of hearts and discarded first the king of diamonds and then the ace! This rather spectacular play was vital to success, for it provided declarer with two entries to dummy. Declarer ruffed a heart in the closed hand and led the jack of diamonds overtaking with the queen. He ruffed another heart and led a diamond to dummy's nine. Observe this maneuver would not have been possible had South retained the ace and king of diamonds. Declarer then led a diamond and ruffed in his hand for the third time. South was now left with two trumps, the king and ten, and the jack of clubs. The club was ruffed with dummy's queen of trumps and on the return from dummy East was trapped.

Fallout Shelter Study Set In D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — City officials announced Thursday a survey will be made to find fallout shelter in existing government and private buildings.

The survey will involve a search for buildings here which have walls capable of reducing by at least 20 fold the radiation which would enter from the outside. The areas also will have to be large enough to accommodate at least 50 persons each.

When an acceptable area is found, permission will be sought to use it as a shelter. The area then will be marked and provisioned.

It also was announced that a team of scientists will conduct a seminar on radioactivity for 140 high school teachers in Washington and nearby areas of Maryland and Virginia.

The seminar, beginning Monday, is being sponsored by the Washington Academy of Sciences and the Joint Board on Science Education.

Is Electric Resistance Home Heating Economical? Users Told Us...NO!

NO "It's not as economical as they said. We have already exceeded our budget." NO "You must have the house well insulated — that's extra cost." NO "When I got a survey estimate it sounded reasonable. Now, it's much higher." NO "The operating cost is prohibitive." NO "It would be too expensive to heat the basement, so we have to heat it with GAS."

Operating cost of a forced air gas heating system is usually about one fourth as much as an electric resistance heating system. Electric resistance heating is so expensive, you can actually heat and cool with a year-round gas air conditioning system for considerably less than you can heat alone with electricity. And service costs with gas are negligible.

There is very little difference in total installation cost between gas and electric resistance heating. But—with an electric resistance heating system, all you get is heat. A modern forced air gas heating system on the other hand, does a lot more than just provide heat. It cleans the air; it circulates healthful, fresh air throughout the entire house; and it controls humidity. And unlike an electric resistance heating system, it can readily be converted to year-round air conditioning at any time.

Remember, too, that the extra cost of excessive insulation and storm windows and storm doors should properly be counted as part of the installation cost of an electric resistance heating system, because they are to all intents and purposes an absolute necessity.

With gas, you can heat every room in your home economically and efficiently from a single thermostat. This is true centralized control for the kind of whole-house comfort everyone wants.

Each additional thermostat adds to the cost of installation. But in a modern gas heating system, additional thermostats are not necessary, because with gas you can afford to comfort-condition the entire house. No need to keep doors closed, to close off rooms, or to experience unhealthful differences of temperature in moving from room to room.

Automatic control of whole-house comfort is included in all modern gas heating installations.

Cresaptown Dwelling Fire Caused By Stove Explosion

Two rooms of a frame home in the Cresaptown area were gutted early yesterday when a kerosene stove exploded in the kitchen of the residence.

The blaze occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ellifritz, who said the stove exploded as he tried to light a burner around midnight.

An alarm was turned in by a neighbor, but the flames had spread to the adjoining living room by the time the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company arrived minutes later.

Ellifritz carried a two-year-old son to safety, and two older children left the home with their mother before firemen arrived. The blaze was out in about 10 minutes, but the firemen remained on the scene about two hours.

Preston Muir, executive board.

The actual vote count for the runoff was not divulged, but the committee said 1,042 votes were cast as compared to the 1,101 in the general election October 18.

Continentals To Parade

The Continentals, Cumberland's Civil War Yankee company, will parade in Romney, W. Va., Sunday afternoon at 2:30 prior to having a skirmish near the school with members of the Morgan Continental Guards, Company K, 5th Virginia Infantry at Winchester.

Earlier this week the Continentals attended an organizational meeting in Romney, where plans were laid for organizing Company K, 13th Virginia Infantry which as yet has no permanent commander.

Major Francis Haselberger, commander of the Continentals, said the 25 members of his unit plan to march in a Halloween parade at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Frostburg.

The following night they will march in the parade which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in South Cumberland in observance of Halloween.

SCS Supervisor Visits 4-H Clubs

Martin M. Gordon, work unit supervisor for Allegany District Soil Conservation Service, visited with area 4-H clubs this week. At each meeting, he discussed soil conservation work, gave one or two demonstrations and showed a film on conservation.

Tuesday, Mr. Gordon visited the Baltimore Pike Club during its meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Shipley, and on Wednesday, the Mount Savage Club, meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lepley.

Tonight he will be at the meeting of the Dawson 4-H Club being held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O'Haver.

Youth Fellowship To Hold Party

The Youth Fellowship of Potomac Park Evangelical United Brethren Church will hold a community Halloween party for people of all ages Monday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the church recreation hall.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Games and refreshments will be available. A small admission fee will be charged.

Home Permit Issued

Harry Dishong Jr., 187 Ormond Street, Frostburg, has been issued a permit to construct a brick veneer dwelling which will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a basement. The permit was issued at the Allegany County Court House.

Insects cannot rival man in intelligence because of their limited size, biologists believe. A brain mechanism allowing flexible behavior requires an enormous number of neurons, and no insect has reached a size large enough to provide the minimum.

COMPLETES TOUR—Airman 2/c Gerald E. Grapes, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Grapes, RD 1, Ridgeley, has just completed a tour of duty in Iceland. After spending a leave with his parents, he will be assigned to duty as an air policeman with the 4238th Combat Support Squadron, Strategic Air Command, Barksdale Air Force Base, La.

on the "sunny, sandy beaches of the Atlantic Ocean" at Ocean City in contrast to this convention's sojourn among the state's "highest mountains and most rugged terrain."

He urged that members take part in the tours of industrial plants and see the "magnificent scenery" which surrounds the city and the hills of nearby Garrett County.

"Most of all, however, I hope that you will find in Cumberland a hospitality as gracious as the grandeur of the hills that surround it," the Mayor said.

Tour Queen City

Ladies of the convention attended a luncheon at the Fort Cumberland Hotel grill room and went on a historical tour.

The first convention session was in charge of George M. Miller, League president and mayor of Takoma Park. Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, gave the invocation.

Today's program includes panels on planning, refuse collection and budgeting; a tour of area industrial plants and city facilities, and the annual banquet featuring a talk by Edmund Harding, North Carolina humorist.

Sailor Held Up By Two Soldiers

BEDFORD, Pa. (UPI) — State police yesterday searched for two hitchhiking soldiers who robbed a sailor of $140 near the Breezewood interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Bedford state police said the two soldiers jumped into a car operated by Robert Jenkins, 37, of Norfolk, Va., late Wednesday night after the sailor pulled up to a stop sign off the Breezewood interchange.

Jenkins told police one of the soldiers pulled a 45 caliber pistol on him and told him to pull onto a side road off Route 126. Police said the soldiers robbed Jenkins and then tried to take his car but the sailor balked at this point and the pair fled on foot.

Jenkins, who is assigned to the USS Shangri La in Brooklyn, N.Y., was en route to Norfolk to attend his brother's funeral.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do I have the right to walk out on my husband? Here's the story:

Scotty and I have been married for six years. We have two children. I've worked part-time as a waitress and have made good money.

Down at the plant where Scotty works there is always a floating crap game. When we got married he promised he'd stay out of the games, and he's been pretty good about it.

I've been saving my tips for almost two years so we could buy a new car. Last week when I counted the money there was over $1,000 in the cookie tin. Tonight I went to add another $15 and the tin was empty. Scotty admitted that he felt awfully lucky yesterday and took the money. Of course he lost it.

Am I justified in leaving him? —FAYE

DEAR FAYE: A woman who is so stupid she would leave $1,000 in a cookie tin deserves what you got.

Of course your husband did a rotten thing, but what would be gained by leaving him? You would succeed only in depriving your children of a father. Have you ever heard of a bank?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: During the month of July I went to visit my cousin. She is exactly my age, 15, and I had not seen her for six years.

I planned to stay there two weeks but seven days was all I could take. Karen smokes and drinks. Her friends are roughnecks who drive wild and use bad language. She never cleaned her room once in the week I was there. When her mother mentioned it she told her to "Shut up."

Yesterday I received a letter from Karen saying she wants to spend Christmas vacation with me. I don't want her here. What shall I do?—NO KISSIN' KIN

DEAR KIN: Say No. Since it's apparent you have little in common with this girl why try to entertain her? She wouldn't fit in with your friends any better than you fit in with hers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think should be done in a case like this? I've never heard of a similar incident so we have nothing to go by.

Our daughter was asked to be a bridesmaid by a very close friend. All the plans for the wedding were set and the five bridesmaids ordered their dresses and head-pieces and had their slippers dyed to match their gowns. The bride, of course, selected everything and as is the custom, each bridesmaid paid for her own outfit.

Yesterday (ten days before the wedding) the bride's fiance got his army orders and the couple decided to call off the marriage. The bridesmaids are stuck with their outfits. Do you feel they should ask the bride to reimburse them?—P.H.E.

DEAR P.H.E.: It would be generous indeed if the bride offered, but since no offer was made, it should not be suggested.

A seamstress can remake a bridesmaid's dress so that it can be used as a party gown. The investment is not totally lost.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Convincing Khrushchev

There seems to be growing recognition that any negotiation over West Berlin and Germany must include a basis for general European settlement. This has been a fundamental objective of U.S. policy, which Moscow has resisted.

Premier Khrushchev could sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany at any time, but this would provide little more than exists under present relations. By withdrawing his year-end deadline for such a treaty he may be willing to discuss broader issues.

Realization that Khrushchev seeks more than a permanently divided Germany has provided what stiffness there is to the West's stand. The Allies cannot accept neutralization of Germany without yielding a strong advantage to Russia.

Beyond military considerations, there are others equally important. West Germany has joined, through trade and political agreements, a union of free nations banded together against the Soviet octopus. Isolated from this, West Germany might easily go the way of East Germany, Poland and Hungary.

No matter how diffuse the Allies may appear to be on timing and procedure, Secretary Rusk gives his word that there is no division among them on what must be protected. When Khrushchev is convinced of this there may be successful negotiation. But not before.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Definitions

The logical mind cannot use words without definitions. Most of the confusions of our time are due to the lack of definition of terms; thus we generally confuse socialism and communism, a free society and a democracy. One might say that it makes little difference because most people have an intuitive concept of what is meant.

Admiral Rickover is gifted with a logical mind which compels him to define his terms, so that when he refers to a subject, he and his hearer will know precisely what is meant and the argument, if any, need not be over words.

We speak of a free society by which we might mean anything from such an anarchistic society, as Emma Goldman advocated, to the government-dominated society which Franklin D. Roosevelt actually established in this country.

Admiral Rickover defines a free society in precise terms:

"By 'free' I mean a politically free society in which the individual possesses 'inalienable rights,' and government is instituted 'to secure these rights.' We hold it to be 'self-evident' truth that liberty is an indispensable attribute of the individual. Not absolute liberty, of course, for this is not possible unless one dwells on an uninhabited island, but the broadest liberty compatible with life in society. This is accomplished by making consent of the people indispensable to the functioning of government; in other words, by associating the individual with the business of governing. In a free society the citizen has public functions, hence public status. His government, to quote Madison, 'derives all its powers directly or indirectly from the great body of the people, and is administered by persons holding their offices during pleasure, for a limited period, or during good behavior.'"

It is interesting that Admiral Rickover bases his terminology on the Declaration of Independence which our youngsters are no longer told to memorize, as my generation did. The Declaration rather than the Constitution is the basic philosophic statement of American society. These days there is a tendency to refer to the so-called Bill of Rights, that is, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, as the whole of American political doctrine.

By no stretch of the imagination can this be so. The first 10 amendments are, it is true, a restriction upon government, but their main function is to implement the Declaration of Independence which holds certain truths to be self-evident.

Among certain truths is government by choice which was increasing during the 19th Century and has been decreasing during the 20th Century. Since the American Revolution, country after country sought to limit government, to expand the rights of the people, to destroy every form of autocracy. Since the Russian Revolution, political development has been in the opposite direction. More and more countries have been taken over in one form or another of tutelage, either by a dictatorship or by a single person, or the dictatorship of an oligarchy of a dominant political party. This trend has been justified by Karl Marx's dictatorship of the proletariat. Thus the "unfree" society has come into existence. Admiral Rickover defines the unfree society as follows:

"I use the contrasting term 'unfree' to designate any society where the people do not have effective control over their government. A great variety of political systems fall into this broad category. They range from authoritarian countries where the ruler respects the law and does not meddle with the private lives of the people except to demand political obedience, to modern totalitarian countries where rulers acknowledge no law superior to their own will and desire, where government maintains itself in power by brute force reinforced by all-pervasive propaganda, where the individual is permitted no shred of private life in which to decide matters of a personal nature."

From the standpoint of this definition, it is impossible to make a moral distinction between Hitler and Stalin, Batista and Castro. Those in our State Department, who can discover a difference between one dictator and another on a moral basis, are obviously unable to define their terms. When, for instance, the State Department makes a distinction between Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and Castro of Cuba, it cannot define its terms. If one was wicked, so was the other. If one left the people no choice, so does the other. Roosevelt's initial error was that he assumed that he could distinguish between a good dictator and a bad one. Admiral Rickover distinguishes between a free and an unfree society.

Then Why Send Out The Poor Imitation?

Experts Gave Kennedy Conflicting Advice About Handling Khrushchev

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—What the public doesn't know about the Berlin crisis is that the President has been receiving two sets of advice from inside he State Department on how to handle Khrushchev.

Now, with the flare-up between the Red Chinese and Khrushchev at the 22nd Communist Party Congress, one set of advisers has been proved completely wrong.

Just a few days before the 22nd Congress, Charles E. ("Chip") Bohlen was telling the White House that all was well between Khrushchev and the Chinese, that he had Mao Tse-tung eating out of his hand. Bohlen is rated as the State Department's No. 1 adviser on Russian affairs. What he says about the goings-on inside the Kremlin is considered gospel.

He has been advising President Kennedy to take a hard line with Khrushchev, has leaned toward the idea that K was completely calling the shots inside the Soviet, that he had no problems with the Red Chinese or the Red army or the old Stalinist crowd.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, U. S. Envoy in Moscow, has been advising the opposite. He has warned that Khrushchev had problems inside the Kremlin, that he had to yield to the Red Army marshals on atomic testing, that the Red Chinese were ready to raise Cain if he didn't come up with a tough Berlin agreement to prove his policy of coexistence.

Thompson has also expressed the belief that the Red Army forced Khrushchev to test the 50-megaton bomb.

The most important advice he has given Kennedy was that if Khrushchev is pushed out of the Kremlin, the USA will have to deal with a much tougher, probably a fanatical Communist who would reverse Khrushchev's policy that war is not necessary between the capitalist and communist world.

Disastrous Advice

This conflicting advice, coming at this crucial period to the President of the United States, is perhaps the single most important factor influencing U. S. foreign policy. It has a direct bearing on almost everything Kennedy does, especially Berlin.

For if the President considers Khrushchev a potential friend, he plays policy one way. If he considers him an inevitable enemy, he plays it the other.

As between these two sets of advice, Kennedy at first sided almost entirely with Bohlen. Bohlen, it should be noted, also had supporters, the most important being Dean Acheson, former Secretary of State, who also advised Kennedy that it was impossible to get along with Khrushchev, that he should not yield an inch over Berlin.

Others believed just the opposite: including Adlai Stevenson, Ambassador to the UN; Chester Bowles, under Secretary of State; Sen. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican, an important member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

They advised Kennedy, as early as the weeks before he was inaugurated, to take the initiative regarding Berlin. They advised that the Berlin problem was now 16 years old, that it couldn't be postponed indefinitely, that Khrushchev had already postponed it three times—at our urging. Finally they pointed out that a football player who is running with the ball is in a much better position than a football player who is trying to tackle him; so, they urged, Kennedy should grab the Berlin ball and run with it.

Kennedy Now On Defensive

Instead Kennedy took the advice of the anti-Khrushchev clique inside the State Department, and now finds himself trying to tackle Khrushchev who carries the ball.

Significantly, it was not until Ambassador Thompson was called back from Moscow last spring that Kennedy began to try to carry the Berlin ball. When Thompson returned to Washington, he advised that Khrushchev had problems with elements inside the Communist Bloc who wanted war with the United States and that we had better help K make his policy of coexistence work.

It was then that Kennedy sent Khrushchev a letter, via Thompson, inviting him to meet in Vienna.

But by that time Khrushchev, though still anxious to meet with Kennedy, was getting the "I told you so" treatment from the Red Chinese, the Red Army marshals and the Stalinists. He was in a stiffer mood.

He had released the RB-47 fliers right after Kennedy's inauguration in a carefully calculated attempt to improve relations. He had sent Kennedy a long, glowing inaugural telegram of congratulations for which he received only brief, formal thanks. He had offered to end an envoy of Cabinet rank to Kennedy's inauguration, which was turned down. And when Ambassador Stevenson in New York said he was sure Kennedy would see Khrushchev if Mr. K came to New York to attend the UN, this got a blunt formal denial from the White House.

This had brought Bronx cheers from the Red Chinese, the Stalinists and those inside the Red Army who had been telling Khrushchev that his policy of getting along with the West was all hogwash. Naturally it made Khrushchev more difficult to deal with in Vienna.

All this is why the group of advisers who told Kennedy that Khrushchev had nothing to worry about inside Russia may be the single greatest factor influencing American policy for peace or war in this generation.

Dangerous Situation Exists In South Vietnam

By Joseph Alsop

KONTUM, South Vietnam

There is solid proof that the North Vietnamese Communist attack on South Vietnam has entered a new, much graver phase, here in this pleasant little capital town of South Vietnam's most exposed border province.

At least one regular regiment of the North Vietnamese army — the 803d Regiment of the 324th Division — is now operating on South Vietnam territory. So much is indicated by prisoner of war testimony directly confirmed by papers captured on the battlefield from Communist war dead.

In addition, intelligence obtained from ground observers and air-reconnaissance indicates the presence in this province of another body of Communist troops which is believed to be a second regiment of regulars. This group, not precisely identifiable since no prisoners have been taken and no documents have been captured, is known to be using elephant transport, presumably for weapons heavier than the normal light guerrilla armament. Finally, two companies of the South Vietnamese army guarding the nearby border with Laos recently made contact with forward units of still another Communist regiment. Reconnaissance has confirmed this third Communist regiment's presence in the border area, where it is clearly preparing to enter South Vietnamese territory — if, indeed, it has not already done so.

Overall, the pattern suggests the staged entry into South Vietnam of all three regiments of the Communist 324th Division. This cannot be regarded as confirmed, of course, until the second and third regiments are identified.

Yet the possibility seems strong, if only because the 324th Division is known to be composed of Communist recruits from the eighboring provinces of Quang Nam and Quang Nai, who went north after Vietnam was divided by the Geneva accord of 1954.

They would be the logical choice to reinvade this area, where the over-stretched South Vietnamese 22d Division is responsible for the security of Quang Nam and Quang Nai, as well as Binh Dinh and Kontum provinces.

In any case, there can be little question about the gravity of the new development herein reported. For many months, the massive infiltration of South Vietnam by guerrilla cadres and bands has been a known fact. But the appearance of regular units of the regular army of Communist North Vietnam is something else again. In plain terms, it is invasion, even although the extreme mistiness of the Laos-Vietnam border has allowed the invasion to take place in a misty, undramatic manner.

The invasion of these Communist regulars was revealed to this reporter by the commander of the South Vietnamese 22d Division, Lt. Col. Nguyen Bao Tri, an able young fighting officer who, at 32, has four provinces to guard.

The testimony of Col. Tri was in turn confirmed by members of the American military advisory group at Kontum, headed by Col. Robert L. Woolfolk. Like Col. Tri, the American officers believe the unidentified units are regular regiments because of their size. They clearly much exceed the largest normal guerrilla unit, which is a provincial battalion. As for the 803d Regiment, its identification rests on prisoner of war and documentary evidence, as already stated.

The clearest records come from the interrogation of LeHoa, an enlisted man of the 365th Company of the 7th Battalion of the 803d Regiment, and from a detailed diary kept by a Captain of the 803d Regiment, Nguyen Dinh Kieu.

Pvt. Le Hoa was captured on October 12, in a small engagement at Binh Khe in Binh Dinh province. Capt. Kieu's diary was taken from his body when he fell in the Communist attack on Dakhakoi, a district center of Kontum province, on September 29. Capt. Kieu's diary reveals that he set off on the journey that ended in his death on June 18 from the North Vietnamese town of Hatinh. Pvt. Le Hao left Hatinh the next day. The regiment, according to the testimony of both the dead captain and the living prisoner, reached Tchepone on June 29. Tchepone is the main staging base which the Communists have established in the part of Laos they control.

Both records again agree that the 803d Regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam towards the end of July. Apparently the crossing was made in small detachments, since Capt. Kieu entered this country on July 18 and Pvt. Le Hao made his border-crossing on the 30th.

Thereafter the two men followed parallel but not identical routes — which is understandable, since the 803d Regiment necessarily split up into units no larger than a guerrilla band in order to move less conspicuously and subsist more easily in the jungle. The direction of the movement was southeasterly.

In early September, Capt. Kieu took part in the bloody fight at Konbrai fort. Here thirty-odd South Vietnamese soldiers commanded by a sergeant held off a rather massive attack for many hours, killed nearly a hundred of the enemy, and only retreated after losing half their small force.

Finally, on September 29, Capt. Kieu was killed at Dakhakoi. Here two Communist battalions, presumably the provincial guerrilla battalion brigaded with one battalion of the 803d Regiment, attacked the little district town, occupied it for a few hours, and massacred the local officials. They were then driven out with heavy casualties by a counterattack led by Lt. Col. Tri and observed by Col. Woolfolk.

As already noted, Pvt. Le Hoa was captured about two weeks later in a small engagement in Binh Dinh province. Confirmatory evidence, particularly as to the route through Laos followed by North Vietnamese troops entering South Vietnam, also exists in the form of brief notes captured on the dead body of a Communist private soldier, Nguyen Van Loi, in early September, and in the interrogation of another North Vietnamese Communist prisoner, Vo Van Tan, taken in mid-September.

In order to understand the unique character of this evidence, it must be noted that in the four provinces guarded by Lt. Col. Tri's 22d Division, no less than twelve hundred Communists have been killed in large and small engagements since the beginning of May. This is the "actual corpse count," as one of the Ameicans at Kontum put it.

Yet the Communists customarily make such efforts to carry away their wounded, and also to strip their dead if they cannot remove them for burial, that the documents and interrogations already described are almost the only direct evidence produced by all this fighting. At the fight at Konbrai fort, for instance, there was not even any clear proof of Communist casualties in the first few hours after the South Vietnamese reinforcements arrived. But the proof emerged soon enough, and in grim form, when nearly a hundred completely stripped corpses floated to the surface of the neighboring river.

Again, in order to understand how regular units of the North Vietnamese Communist army can enter this country without being positively identified for weeks on end, if at all, it is necessary to look at the countryside itself. The "high plateau," where Kontum is situated, is only a plateau by courtesy. Jungle mountains compose most of the plateau. These in turn merge into the trackless, jungle-covered slopes of the Annamite Cordillera, which closely crowd the coastal plain.

In addition, except for the Konbrai and Dakhakoi fights, the 803d Regiment and its brother regiments have all rather ominously held in reserve. Members of these units, like Pvt. Le Hoa, necessarily participate in small scale reconnaissance and food gathering operations. But the main burden of day to day fighting is still being left to the local guerrilla groups.

In the four provinces guarded by Lt. Col Tri's 22d Division, there are known to be 26 Communist regional platoons, each numbering 80 to 140 guerrillas. The addition of regular Communist regiments, as yet largely uncommitted to action, creates a situation of extreme potential danger.

My sense of humor, which is akin to that of a retarded child, falls into convulsions over spoonerisms and mistakes in diction. The spoonerism was named after the Rev. William A. Spooner, of New College, Oxford, England. He had difficulty saying anything correctly and, in church, kept a lady from her seat by saying: "Marden me paddom, but that pie is occupewed."

In America, our radio and television experts enjoy a slip of the tongue now and then. Harry von Zell was almost elected president of the Foot-in-Mouth Club for saying: "And now, ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States, Hoobert Heever." Andre Baruch did pretty well with "Good ladies, evening and gentlemen of the audio radiancy."

Norman Brokenshire used to spin a lot of these at lunch, but Kermit Schaefer did better. He put them in a book called "Pardon My Blooper." I've read it, not once, but many times. It brings out the idiot in me. Some of the funniest lines sent out over the air are not spoonerisms at all. They were intended to mean one thing, but the audience roared with laughter because they had another meaning.

Herb Shriner asked a woman: "Are you a natural born citizen of the United States?" She said: "Oh no. I was born a caesarian." The announcer selling bathing suits: "Ladies, you can now buy a bathing suit for a ridiculous figure."

Betty Furness once advised millions of women: "Try your Westinghouse washer with a full load on." How about the lady who said she had children aged 2, 3, 5 and 6. The announcer asked "What happened to four?" and she said: "Oh, that's the year we got our television set."

I can understand the little boy who rehearsed his little part all week and, when he got up to the microphone, prattled: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the republic for Richard Sands, one nation in a dirigible, with liberty and justice for all." A small town announcer made himself immortal by cooing: "At Moe's Esso Station, you can get gassed, charged up, and have your parts lubricated all in 30 minutes."

Burl Ives, receiving an award from Russel Crouse, mumbled: "I want to thank Mr. Brussel Rouse for his screwl." John Daly is not immune.

The master of scalloped circumlocution was chairman of a series of debates between Senator Taft and Congressman Smith. Daly signed off with: "Senator Taft and Representative Spit smoked from the CBS studios in Washington."

And how about "The following prescribe is transcrammed." Robert Merrill sings beautifully, but he once intoned: "I talute the wen and mimmen of Sexas." Maggi McNellis used to frequent the Ruby Foo restaurant and she flipped her tongue on: "A foo nights ago at Ruby Few's" . . .

One of the best was John Reed King. He was talking about the Lindsay-Crouse play, "Life with Father," but it came out: "That long run Crindsay-Louse play, 'Lice with Father.'" John J. Anthony used to settle family problems, but he had enough when an excitable lady explained that, when her husband went bankrupt, he left her. "He left me," she moaned, "when his business fell off."

The disc jockey only intended to give a lift to a friend who was about to be married, when he said: "I'm going to dedicate the next one to my pal Henry and his expectant bride." Walter Pidgeon was startled out of his dignity when a local chairman said: "Mr. Privilege, this is indeed a pigeon."

A network announcer kicked himself for saying: "We now bring you Mister Keene, loser of traced persons." Local news is sometimes small. A man burned his hand while making griddle cakes and the announcer said: "Jones' hand was burned when he put it on a hot girdle."

That's no worse than the commercial which went: "Remember, it's Wonder Bread for the breast in bed." The distinguished Frank Knight blew up one night with: "Tomorrow's weather — roudy followed by clain." One announcer of a religious program was doing fine until he got the quick wrap-up signal. He said: "Remember, cast thy broad upon the waters. This is the National Breadcasting Company."

A laundry company intended no offense when it announced: "Ladies who care to drive by and drop their clothes off will receive prompt attention." Never try to correct a fluff. A Western announcer said: "This week the governor is hunting beer — I mean bear — well, with his clothes on, in the mountains."

On Young Dr. Malone: "Nurse, be sure to give the patient a hypodemic noodle." A Washington announcer blew up with: "This comes to us from usually reliable White Horse souses."

Don't think it hasn't been a business doing pleasure with you.

Scientists Seek Cure For Coccidioidomycosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Millions of persons in southwestern United States have or have had valley or desert fever (coccidioidomycosis). A chance discovery by a group of scientists at the school of medicine, University of Southern California, may open the way for a cure or preventive of this disease.

They isolated a green fungus capable of inhibiting the growth of the fungus that causes the disease. By a strange coincidence, it was found in the same valley (San Joaquin) where the original disease producer was picked up in 1938. Apparently, the two fungi live in the same desert as enemies, possibly as nature's way of keeping a dangerous microbe under control.

Margaret C. Egeberg and colleagues reported in the magazine Science the results of laboratory tests with the new green mold. There was no doubt that extracts containing the newcomer protected mice from coccidioidomycosis. The green fungus was identified as Penicillium janthinellum, a relative of the old standby.

Valley fever fungi live in the soil. Man and animals inhale the fungus during dust storms, especially in the dry season. The infection usually settles in the lungs but it may enter the body through cuts in the skin. In most victims, the lesions are too small to cause trouble. The condition is detected only through chance X-rays or skin or blood tests.

But one out of four develops a respiratory infection one to three weeks after exposure. Symptoms are chills, fever, weakness, cough, and chest pain. X-ray usually shows an area of pneumonitis. Coccidioidomycosis is suspected in mid-westerners or easterners when these manifestations arise after driving through or vacationing in the southwest. In others, painful bumps appear on the skin.

Amphotericin is the current remedy but seldom is needed because the majority of victims improve spontaneously.

TOMORROW: Baby's navel.

REPLY

Eczema is a condition with many causes and variations. Applying ointments and medications is of little value unless the cause is eliminated. If your sister cannot afford a dermatologist, she should go to the clinic at the University of Cincinnati.

HYSTERICAL BLINDNESS

Yes, because the eyes usually are normal.

HEART SOUND

A murmur is an abnormal heart sound. The cause of the murmur may lead to a heart attack.

REPLY

No. Blushing is unrelated to the diet, including eating beets.

Convincing Khrushchev

There seems to be growing recognition that any negotiation over West Berlin and Germany must include a basis for general European settlement. This has been a fundamental objective of U.S. policy, which Moscow has resisted.

Premier Khrushchev could sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany at any time, but this would provide little more than exists under present relations. By withdrawing his year-end deadline for such a treaty he may be willing to discuss broader issues.

Realization that Khrushchev seeks more than a permanently divided Germany has provided what stiffness there is to the West's stand. The Allies cannot accept neutralization of Germany without yielding a strong advantage to Russia.

Beyond military considerations, there are others equally important. West Germany has joined, through trade and political agreements, a union of free nations banded together against the Soviet octopus. Isolated from this, West Germany might easily go the way of East Germany, Poland and Hungary.

No matter how diffuse the Allies may appear to be on timing and procedure, Secretary Rusk gives his word that there is no division among them on what must be protected. When Khrushchev is convinced of this there may be successful negotiation. But not before.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Definitions

The logical mind cannot use words without definitions. Most of the confusions of our time are due to the lack of definition of terms; thus we generally confuse socialism and communism, a free society and a democracy. One might say that it makes little difference because most people have an intuitive concept of what is meant.

Admiral Rickover is gifted with a logical mind which compels him to define his terms, so that when he refers to a subject, he and his hearer will know precisely what is meant and the argument, if any, need not be over words.

We speak of a free society by which we might mean anything from such an anarchistic society, as Emma Goldman advocated, to the government-dominated society which Franklin D. Roosevelt actually established in this country.

Admiral Rickover defines a free society in precise terms:

"By 'free' I mean a politically free society in which the individual possesses 'inalienable rights,' and government is instituted 'to secure these rights.' We hold it to be 'self-evident' truth that liberty is an indispensable attribute of the individual. Not absolute liberty, of course, for this is not possible unless one dwells on an uninhabited island, but the broadest liberty compatible with life in society. This is accomplished by making consent of the people indispensable to the functioning of government; in other words, by associating the individual with the business of governing. In a free society the citizen has public functions, hence public status. His government, to quote Madison, 'derives all its powers directly or indirectly from the great body of the people, and is administered by persons holding their offices during pleasure, for a limited period, or during good behavior.'"

It is interesting that Admiral Rickover bases his terminology on the Declaration of Independence which our youngsters are no longer told to memorize, as my generation did. The Declaration rather than the Constitution is the basic philosophic statement of American society. These days there is a tendency to refer to the so-called Bill of Rights, that is, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, as the whole of American political doctrine.

By no stretch of the imagination can this be so. The first 10 amendments are, it is true, a restriction upon government, but their main function is to implement the Declaration of Independence which holds certain truths to be self-evident.

Among certain truths is government by choice which was increasing during the 19th Century and has been decreasing during the 20th Century. Since the American Revolution, country after country sought to limit government, to expand the rights of the people, to destroy every form of autocracy. Since the Russian Revolution, political development has been in the opposite direction. More and more countries have been taken over in one form or another of tutelage, either by a dictatorship or by a single person, or the dictatorship of an oligarchy of a dominant political party. This trend has been justified by Karl Marx's dictatorship of the proletariat. Thus the "unfree" society has come into existence. Admiral Rickover defines the unfree society as follows:

"I use the contrasting term 'unfree' to designate any society where the people do not have effective control over their government. A great variety of political systems fall into this broad category. They range from authoritarian countries where the ruler respects the law and does not meddle with the private lives of the people except to demand political obedience, to modern totalitarian countries where rulers acknowledge no law superior to their own will and desire, where government maintains itself in power by brute force reinforced by all-pervasive propaganda, where the individual is permitted no shred of private life in which to decide matters of a personal nature."

From the standpoint of this definition, it is impossible to make a moral distinction between Hitler and Stalin, Batista and Castro. Those in our State Department, who can discover a difference between one dictator and another on a moral basis, are obviously unable to define their terms. When, for instance, the State Department makes a distinction between Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and Castro of Cuba, it cannot define its terms. If one was wicked, so was the other. If one left the people no choice, so does the other. Roosevelt's initial error was that he assumed that he could distinguish between a good dictator and a bad one. Admiral Rickover distinguishes between a free and an unfree society.

Then Why Send Out The Poor Imitation?

Dangerous Situation Exists In South Vietnam

By Joseph Alsop

KONTUM, South Vietnam

There is solid proof that the North Vietnamese Communist attack on South Vietnam has entered a new, much graver phase, here in this pleasant little capital town of South Vietnam's most exposed border province.

At least one regular regiment of the North Vietnamese army — the 803d Regiment of the 324th Division — is now operating on South Vietnam territory. So much is indicated by prisoner of war testimony directly confirmed by papers captured on the battlefield from Communist war dead.

In addition, intelligence obtained from ground observers and air-reconnaissance indicates the presence in this province of another body of Communist troops which is believed to be a second regiment of regulars. This group, not precisely identifiable since no prisoners have been taken and no documents have been captured, is known to be using elephant transport, presumably for weapons heavier than the normal light guerrilla armament. Finally, two companies of the South Vietnamese army guarding the nearby border with Laos recently made contact with forward units of still another Communist regiment. Reconnaissance has confirmed this third Communist regiment's presence in the border area, where it is clearly preparing to enter South Vietnamese territory — if, indeed, it has not already done so.

Overall, the pattern suggests the staged entry into South Vietnam of all three regiments of the Communist 324th Division. This cannot be regarded as confirmed, of course, until the second and third regiments are identified.

Yet the possibility seems strong, if only because the 324th Division is known to be composed of Communist recruits from the eighboring provinces of Quang Nam and Quang Nai, who went north after Vietnam was divided by the Geneva accord of 1954.

They would be the logical choice to reinvade this area, where the over-stretched South Vietnamese 22d Division is responsible for the security of Quang Nam and Quang Nai, as well as Binh Dinh and Kontum provinces.

In any case, there can be little question about the gravity of the new development herein reported. For many months, the massive infiltration of South Vietnam by guerrilla cadres and bands has been a known fact. But the appearance of regular units of the regular army of Communist North Vietnam is something else again. In plain terms, it is invasion, even although the extreme mistiness of the Laos-Vietnam border has allowed the invasion to take place in a misty, undramatic manner.

The invasion of these Communist regulars was revealed to this reporter by the commander of the South Vietnamese 22d Division, Lt. Col. Nguyen Bao Tri, an able young fighting officer who, at 32, has four provinces to guard.

The testimony of Col. Tri was in turn confirmed by members of the American military advisory group at Kontum, headed by Col. Robert L. Woolfolk. Like Col. Tri, the American officers believe the unidentified units are regular regiments because of their size. They clearly much exceed the largest normal guerrilla unit, which is a provincial battalion. As for the 803d Regiment, its identification rests on prisoner of war and documentary evidence, as already stated.

The clearest records come from the interrogation of LeHoa, an enlisted man of the 365th Company of the 7th Battalion of the 803d Regiment, and from a detailed diary kept by a Captain of the 803d Regiment, Nguyen Dinh Kieu.

Pvt. Le Hoa was captured on October 12, in a small engagement at Binh Khe in Binh Dinh province. Capt. Kieu's diary was taken from his body when he fell in the Communist attack on Dakhakoi, a district center of Kontum province, on September 29. Capt. Kieu's diary reveals that he set off on the journey that ended in his death on June 18 from the North Vietnamese town of Hatinh. Pvt. Le Hao left Hatinh the next day. The regiment, according to the testimony of both the dead captain and the living prisoner, reached Tchepone on June 29. Tchepone is the main staging base which the Communists have established in the part of Laos they control.

Both records again agree that the 803d Regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam towards the end of July. Apparently the crossing was made in small detachments, since Capt. Kieu entered this country on July 18 and Pvt. Le Hao made his border-crossing on the 30th.

Thereafter the two men followed parallel but not identical routes — which is understandable, since the 803d Regiment necessarily split up into units no larger than a guerrilla band in order to move less conspicuously and subsist more easily in the jungle. The direction of the movement was southeasterly.

In early September, Capt. Kieu took part in the bloody fight at Konbrai fort. Here thirty-odd South Vietnamese soldiers commanded by a sergeant held off a rather massive attack for many hours, killed nearly a hundred of the enemy, and only retreated after losing half their small force.

Finally, on September 29, Capt. Kieu was killed at Dakhakoi. Here two Communist battalions, presumably the provincial guerrilla battalion brigaded with one battalion of the 803d Regiment, attacked the little district town, occupied it for a few hours, and massacred the local officials. They were then driven out with heavy casualties by a counterattack led by Lt. Col. Tri and observed by Col. Woolfolk.

As already noted, Pvt. Le Hoa was captured about two weeks later in a small engagement in Binh Dinh province. Confirmatory evidence, particularly as to the route through Laos followed by North Vietnamese troops entering South Vietnam, also exists in the form of brief notes captured on the dead body of a Communist private soldier, Nguyen Van Loi, in early September, and in the interrogation of another North Vietnamese Communist prisoner, Vo Van Tan, taken in mid-September.

In order to understand the unique character of this evidence, it must be noted that in the four provinces guarded by Lt. Col. Tri's 22d Division, no less than twelve hundred Communists have been killed in large and small engagements since the beginning of May. This is the "actual corpse count," as one of the Ameicans at Kontum put it.

Yet the Communists customarily make such efforts to carry away their wounded, and also to strip their dead if they cannot remove them for burial, that the documents and interrogations already described are almost the only direct evidence produced by all this fighting. At the fight at Konbrai fort, for instance, there was not even any clear proof of Communist casualties in the first few hours after the South Vietnamese reinforcements arrived. But the proof emerged soon enough, and in grim form, when nearly a hundred completely stripped corpses floated to the surface of the neighboring river.

Again, in order to understand how regular units of the North Vietnamese Communist army can enter this country without being positively identified for weeks on end, if at all, it is necessary to look at the countryside itself. The "high plateau," where Kontum is situated, is only a plateau by courtesy. Jungle mountains compose most of the plateau. Experts Gave Kennedy Conflicting Advice About Handling Khrushchev

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—What the public doesn't know about the Berlin crisis is that the President has been receiving two sets of advice from inside the State Department on how to handle Khrushchev.

Now, with the flare-up between the Red Chinese and Khrushchev at the 22nd Communist Party Congress, one set of advisers has been proved completely wrong.

Just a few days before the 22nd Congress, Charles E. ("Chip") Bohlen was telling the White House that all was well between Khrushchev and the Chinese, that he had Mao Tse-tung eating out of his hand. Bohlen is rated as the State Department's No. 1 adviser on Russian affairs. What he says about the goings-on inside the Kremlin is considered gospel.

He has been advising President Kennedy to take a hard line with Khrushchev, has leaned toward the idea that K was completely calling the shots inside the Soviet, that he had no problems with the Red Chinese or the Red army or the old Stalinist crowd.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, U. S. Envoy in Moscow, has been advising the opposite. He has warned that Khrushchev had problems inside the Kremlin, that he had to yield to the Red Army marshals on atomic testing, that the Red Chinese were ready to raise Cain if he didn't come up with a tough Berlin agreement to prove his policy of coexistence.

Thompson has also expressed the belief that the Red Army forced Khrushchev to test the 50-megaton bomb.

The most important advice he has given Kennedy was that if Khrushchev is pushed out of the Kremlin, the USA will have to deal with a much tougher, probably a fanatical Communist who would reverse Khrushchev's policy that war is not necessary between the capitalist and communist world.

Disastrous Advice

This conflicting advice, coming at this crucial period to the President of the United States, is perhaps the single most important factor influencing U. S. foreign policy. It has a direct bearing on almost everything Kennedy does, especially Berlin.

For if the President considers Khrushchev a potential friend, he plays policy one way. If he considers him an inevitable enemy, he plays it the other.

As between these two sets of advice, Kennedy at first sided almost entirely with Bohlen. Bohlen, it should be noted, also had supporters, the most important being Dean Acheson, former Secretary of State, who also advised Kennedy that it was impossible to get along with Khrushchev, that he should not yield an inch over Berlin.

Others believed just the opposite: including Adlai Stevenson, Ambassador to the UN; Chester Bowles, under Secretary of State; Sen. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican, an important member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

They advised Kennedy, as early as the weeks before he was inaugurated, to take the initiative regarding Berlin. They advised that the Berlin problem was now 16 years old, that it couldn't be postponed indefinitely, that Khrushchev had already postponed it three times—at our urging. Finally they pointed out that a football player who is running with the ball is in a much better position than a football player who is trying to tackle him; so, they urged, Kennedy should grab the Berlin ball and run with it.

Kennedy Now On Defensive

Instead Kennedy took the advice of the anti-Khrushchev clique inside the State Department, and now finds himself trying to tackle Khrushchev who carries the ball.

Significantly, it was not until Ambassador Thompson was called back from Moscow last spring that Kennedy began to try to carry the Berlin ball. When Thompson returned to Washington, he advised that Khrushchev had problems with elements inside the Communist Bloc who wanted war with the United States and that we had better help K make his policy of coexistence work.

It was then that Kennedy sent Khrushchev a letter, via Thompson, inviting him to meet in Vienna.

But by that time Khrushchev, though still anxious to meet with Kennedy, was getting the "I told you so" treatment from the Red Chinese, the Red Army marshals and the Stalinists. He was in a stiffer mood.

He had released the RB-47 fliers right after Kennedy's inauguration in a carefully calculated attempt to improve relations. He had sent Kennedy a long, glowing inaugural telegram of congratulations for which he received only brief, formal thanks. He had offered to end an envoy of Cabinet rank to Kennedy's inauguration, which was turned down. And when Ambassador Stevenson in New York said he was sure Kennedy would see Khrushchev if Mr. K came to New York to attend the UN, this got a blunt formal denial from the White House.

This had brought Bronx cheers from the Red Chinese, the Stalinists and those inside the Red Army who had been telling Khrushchev that his policy of getting along with the West was all hogwash. Naturally it made Khrushchev more difficult to deal with in Vienna.

All this is why the group of advisers who told Kennedy that Khrushchev had nothing to worry about inside Russia may be the single greatest factor influencing American policy for peace or war in this generation.

Scientists Seek Cure For Coccidioidomycosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Millions of persons in southwestern United States have or have had valley or desert fever (coccidioidomycosis). A chance discovery by a group of scientists at the school of medicine, University of Southern California, may open the way for a cure or preventive of this disease.

They isolated a green fungus capable of inhibiting the growth of the fungus that causes the disease. By a strange coincidence, it was found in the same valley (San Joaquin) where the original disease producer was picked up in 1938. Apparently, the two fungi live in the same desert as enemies, possibly as nature's way of keeping a dangerous microbe under control.

Margaret C. Egeberg and colleagues reported in the magazine Science the results of laboratory tests with the new green mold. There was no doubt that extracts containing the newcomer protected mice from coccidioidomycosis. The green fungus was identified as Penicillium janthinellum, a relative of the old standby.

Valley fever fungi live in the soil. Man and animals inhale the fungus during dust storms, especially in the dry season. The infection usually settles in the lungs but it may enter the body through cuts in the skin. In most victims, the lesions are too small to cause trouble. The condition is detected only through chance X-rays or skin or blood tests.

But one out of four develops a respiratory infection one to three weeks after exposure. Symptoms are chills, fever, weakness, cough, and chest pain. X-ray usually shows an area of pneumonitis. Coccidioidomycosis is suspected in mid-westerners or easterners when these manifestations arise after driving through or vacationing in the southwest. In others, painful bumps appear on the skin.

Amphotericin is the current remedy but seldom is needed because the majority of victims improve spontaneously.

CHRONIC ECZEMA

Cincinnati writes: Can anything be done about eczema? My sister has much trouble with large patches on the face, back of the ears, and on the legs, arms, elbows, and knees. Nothing she puts on seems to relieve it and she can't afford to go to a specialist. What would you suggest for relief?

REPLY

Eczema is a condition with many causes and variations. Applying ointments and medications is of little value unless the cause is eliminated. If your sister cannot afford a dermatologist, she should go to the clinic at the University of Cincinnati.

HYSTERICAL BLINDNESS

H. C. writes: Cany psychic blindness be cured?

REPLY

Yes, because the eyes usually are normal.

HEART SOUND

E. C. writes: Can a heart murmur cause a heart attack?

REPLY

A murmur is an abnormal heart sound. The cause of the murmur may lead to a heart attack.

RED AS A BEET

T. L. writes: Will following a certain diet help reduce blushing? I have been plagued with this annoyance all my life.

REPLY

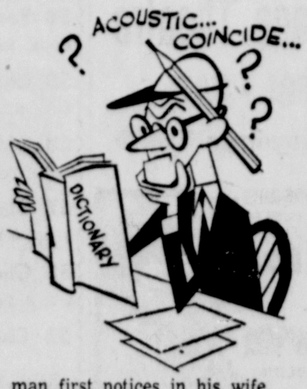
No. Blushing is unrelated to the diet, including eating beets.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Squire Klopfer was constantly annoyed by motorists who scooted past his front porch at an average speed of eighty miles an hour. The wily squire put a stop to that nonsense with a large sign that has slowed drivers down to a very slow crawl. The sign proclaims: PLEASE PROCEED WITH CARE. NUDIST CAMP CROSSING JUST AHEAD.



Campus definitions:

ACOUSTIC—What you use when you shoot pool.

COINCIDE—What you do when it starts raining.

GLADIATOR—What the cannibal said after he dined on the lady explorer.

MIDDLE AGE—A condition a man first notices in his wife.

BASSO PROFUNDO—A deep-thinking fish.

FSTC Sponsors Campus Day Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — Campus Day will be held Saturday at Frostburg State Teachers College for Maryland high school students under the sponsorship of the Student Congress. The program is intended to acquaint visitors with life on the campus.

"This is the first time Campus Day has been held on Saturday," according to John Allison, guidance counselor. "The suggestion for the change was made by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, who felt that students are already away from classes for various activities and that it might be advisable to curtail such events as much as possible."

Visitors will register in Compton Hall lobby at 9:30 a. m. and attend a general assembly in the auditorium at 10 a. m. A roll call of high schools will be made and Allison and Marvin Vann, Student Congress president, will welcome the students and explain the agenda.

From 10:30 until noon, students will participate in campus tours and visit department displays and exhibits.

During the some time advisors and adults will have a coffee hour, followed by a visit to the office of President R. Bowen Hardesty for a discussion period. Questions concerning admissions, majors and minors, and present offerings of the college will be explained. Various card charts depicting the programs will be on display.

Students will have lunch in Gunter Hall from noon to 1:30 p.m., after which Dr. William Van Newkirk, psychology professor, will explain to counselors the results of the Freshman Class entrance tests.

The college band will open the program at the afternoon assembly. Performances are also planned by majorettes, and the dance and concert bands. Hardesty will then extend a welcome to the visitors, after which Alpha Phi Omega will present "Project 61," the same show that was given by the group over television in Hagerstown. Miss Dorothy Stone White, director of drama, will be in charge of the presentation. Terry Phillips, Madeline Barr, John Goss, Samuel James, Kenneth Moreland, Sandra Cadarette comprise the cast.

Sally Traver will sing "Love Is Where You Find It," accompanied at the piano by James Pierce, college music instructor. Howard Boyajian will play "Meditation from Thais" and Darlene Van Roon will present "Lady Windemere's Fan." Several selections will be presented by the Madrigal Singers.

National Catholic Youth Week Planned At Keyser

KEYSER—Young people from the Church of the Assumption will join in the 11th annual observance of National Catholic Youth Week October 29 to November 5 with a series of special services and programs.

Participating will be students from St. Frances Parochial School, teenagers enrolled in all of the high shools served by the parish, and members of the Newman Club at Potomac State College.

Youth Week begins on the Feast of Christ the King, Sunday, and ends on the following Sunday, November 5. The opening day is designated as National Catholic Communion Sunday and on this day every Catholic youth is asked to receive Holy Communion in honor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Queen of Youth.

Starting also on that day is the eighth annual National Catholic Youth Communion Crusade, which operates throughout a diocese or school from the start of Youth Week to Pentecost Sunday of the following year. The Crusade moves throughout a diocese at a rate of from two to four parishes a week. A school may rotate by class or division. When all parishes or schools have completed their week of participation the process is resumed until the official end of the Crusade, Pentecost Sunday, June 10, 1962.

Miss Peggy Staggers, president of the local Catholic Youth Organization, said the week's observance is planned to emphasize youth's potential by spotlighting their capacity and willingness to assume responsibility; to encourage youth by making them aware of their opportunity for good; to display the talents, abilities, and resources of youth and to reveal modern Catholic youth's depth of spirituality, to foster frequent reception of the Sacraments among Catholic youth, and to work for the increase of religious vocations.

Miss Patricia Wolfe, spiritual chairman of the CYO, said specific aims and purposes this year are: to focus the attention of the world on dedicated Catholic youth who possess the truth and yearn to work toward the union of all nations and all faiths, to alert the world to the tremendous power in the hands of young people committed to truth, and to realize that all truth comes from God and that only through Him can youth achieve its goals.

The observance here will get underway with a high mass at 10 a.m. followed by Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. Visitations will be made by the young people from 11 a.m. until 2:30 when the day's activities will close with Benediction.

Rev. John J. O'Connell, spiritual advisor for both the CYO and Newman Club, said the theme is "Youth — Unity — Truth." All programs will be built around the theme which is a reminder that only young people committed to truth in all religious, civic, and social activities can hope to help achieve peace and unity in the world.

Youth week is sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Youth in Washington, under the direction of Right Rev. Monsignor Joseph E. Schieder.

Conservation Officer Claude E. Rice, who investigated, said Robert Wayne Smith, of 74 West Harrison Street, Piedmont, was reportedly cleaning a .22 calibre pistol when it discharged and shot him in the left leg. The mishap occurred about 7:45 p.m. and Rice said the victim claimed he did not know the gun was loaded.

National Catholic Youth Week Planned At Keyser

KEYSER—Young people from the Church of the Assumption will join in the 11th annual observance of National Catholic Youth Week October 29 to November 5 with a series of special services and programs.

Participating will be students from St. Frances Parochial School, teenagers enrolled in all of the high shools served by the parish, and members of the Newman Club at Potomac State College.

Youth Week begins on the Feast of Christ the King, Sunday, and ends on the following Sunday, November 5. The opening day is designated as National Catholic Communion Sunday and on this day every Catholic youth is asked to receive Holy Communion in honor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Queen of Youth.

Starting also on that day is the eighth annual National Catholic Youth Communion Crusade, which operates throughout a diocese or school from the start of Youth Week to Pentecost Sunday of the following year. The Crusade moves throughout a diocese at a rate of from two to four parishes a week. A school may rotate by class or division. When all parishes or schools have completed their week of participation the process is resumed until the official end of the Crusade, Pentecost Sunday, June 10, 1962.

Miss Peggy Staggers, president of the local Catholic Youth Organization, said the week's observance is planned to emphasize youth's potential by spotlighting their capacity and willingness to assume responsibility; to encourage youth by making them aware of their opportunity for good; to display the talents, abilities, and resources of youth and to reveal modern Catholic youth's depth of spirituality, to foster frequent reception of the Sacraments among Catholic youth, and to work for the increase of religious vocations.

Miss Patricia Wolfe, spiritual chairman of the CYO, said specific aims and purposes this year are: to focus the attention of the world on dedicated Catholic youth who possess the truth and yearn to work toward the union of all nations and all faiths, to alert the world to the tremendous power in the hands of young people committed to truth, and to realize that all truth comes from God and that only through Him can youth achieve its goals.

The observance here will get underway with a high mass at 10 a.m. followed by Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. Visitations will be made by the young people from 11 a.m. until 2:30 when the day's activities will close with Benediction.

Rev. John J. O'Connell, spiritual advisor for both the CYO and Newman Club, said the theme is "Youth — Unity — Truth." All programs will be built around the theme which is a reminder that only young people committed to truth in all religious, civic, and social activities can hope to help achieve peace and unity in the world.

Youth week is sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Youth in Washington, under the direction of Right Rev. Monsignor Joseph E. Schieder.

Team Honors Robert Deitz

KEYSER — The football game Saturday afternoon between the Potomac State College and Wesley College (Dover, Del.) teams will be dedicated to a former PSC student, college officials announced.

The dedication request was made by the Catamount team in honor of Robert J. (Bob) Deitz, a freshman halfback on last year's team who died in a highway accident last April 29 near Cumberland.

The game will be a feature of Parents Day, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Deitz, Matawan, N. J., parents of the former student, have accepted an invitation to attend the game. A brief ceremony will be held as part of the halftime events, college officials said.

Coach Dana G. Lough, in commenting on the request of this year's football team, said, "Bob Deitz was an outstanding football player and a popular man on the campus because of his high spirited nature and sense of humor."

Deitz was a member of Phi Kappa Omega fraternity, the Circle K. and Players clubs and a first-place winner in the Speech Department's annual poetry interpretation contest.

Failed To Pay Workers Overtime

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Federal Judge Charles Paul fined two Preston County coal firms a total of $7,000 Thursday for failing to pay their employes time-and-a-half for overtime work.

The fine was levied against Sandy Creek Fuel Corp. and the Omega Mining Co. of Kingwood after John P. Boyle, general manager of both firms, pleaded guilty to two indictments returned Wednesday charging violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Paul directed that $5,300 of the fine should be paid to the firms' employes in back wages.

In other cases:

Survey Made Of Majors At Keyser PSC

Engineering Drops To Third Place

KEYSER — A survey of majors selected by the 613 regularly enrolled students at Potomac State College, exclusive of the 41 specials, shows a marked increase in the arts and sciences, where 90 made the choice this year. This is one behind the 91 figure for the long-time favorite, business administration.

Running third is engineering with 87, which a few years ago, was top-ranked.

The plea for teachers has evidently reached into career choices as 69 enrolled in pre-education. Agriculture majors totaled 37, with allied fields of forestry numbering 20 and pre-veterinary medicine, nine. There are 23 general secretarial science majors and 24 medical secretarial students.

Pre-law lists 26; home economics, 15 (including one male); music, nine; accounting, 11; physical education 48 (34 men and 14 women).

In allied medical fields are 18 in pre-medical (14 men and four women), 10 in pre-dental, seven in pre-nursing, six in pre-pharmacy, 10 in medical technology, and three in pre-physical therapy.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — Unhappy word out of Rome is that Pamela and Cesare Danova have separated. This comes as a blow to their Hollywood friends who would have bet their savings accounts on this marriage—and so would I.

Pamela, who is the drama coach at 20th Century-Fox, has moved into the Grand Hotel with their two children while Cesare remains in the home they had rented for the duration of "Cleopatra." He has a big role in the spectacle with Elizabeth Taylor.

So far there's no talk of a divorce. Let's hope it is just one of those things that sometime occurs in the happiest of marriages and will soon be patched up.

Most of us must enjoy being frightened out of our wits because the thrillier the chiller the more it's sure to pile up in the box-office. Which may have been in the back of Ray Milland's mind when he accepted producer Roger Corman's offer to star in "The Premature Burial of Edgar Allan Poe."

Corman, a specialist in hair-raisers, with 60 thrillers to his credit in the last six years, among them "The House of Usher" and "The Pit and the Pendulum," has also signed TV actress Hazel Court for the femme lead.

Her feeling for Alexa Viespi must be worrying Shelley Winters. Before she left for New York she said, "I think I'd better get out of town before I get married again." She had previously told Miss LOP that another marriage, after two failures, was at the bottom of the list of the things she wanted.

Viespi was an every day visitor to Shell at the time she was making "The Chapman Report" on the Warner lot and being on hand hasn't hurt his own acting career. He's come up with a role, also in "The Chapman Report" and has been signed by Warners for two TV shows.

In his communiques from London, Steve McQueen has made no mention of the recent "unpleasantness" about running up and down hotel corridors hollering and making a commotion. But he and Nielle have moved out of their hotel and into the more private quarters of the town house of Lord and Lady Russell until he finishes "The War Lover."

Stepping into fast company is brilliant young director John Cassavetse who has been tapped by Stanley Kramer to guide Burt Lancaster and Judy Garland in "A Child Is Waiting." I'm sure no one is prouder of the way his career is going than Cassavettes' wife and No. 1 fan, Gena Rowlands.

It's funny about the Cassavetes. Little more than a year ago they were confirmed Broadwayites with Gena scoring big opposite Eddie Robinson in "In the Middle of the Night" and John making his mark as both actor and director in the theatre. Now it would be hard to pry them out of Hollywood.

"We've had actors doing "walk-ons," "dance-ons" and now comes a "sing on." That's what Frank Sinatra is going to do for his pal, director Otto Preminger, in "Advise and Consent." Ever since they made "The Man With the Golden Arm" together Frank and Otto have been a mutual admiration society of two.

What's a "sing on?" In this case it means that only Frank's voice will be heard in a juke box scene in the background of a bit of important action.

Allegany Hosts Frederick, Fort Hill Visits South Hagerstown

Cadets, Rebs Seek 1st Wins Over Locals

Charles Town Plays At Beall; Vikings Entertain Keyser

South Hagerstown's Rebels, boasting their best football team since they came into the picture in 195 will be striving for their fifth consecutive win in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League and their first victory over Fort Hill's Sentinels when they tangle tonight in the Hub City.

Two other CVAL contests are on tap tonight with Allegany's Campers entertaining the Frederick Cadets at the local stadium at 8 o'clock while Martinsburg's Bulldogs do battle with the Westminster High School Owls at Westminster.

Dropped Four In Row

Coach Doug Cochran's Rebels will be trying to score their first win over a Fort Hill team that is 4-2 overall and 2-2 in the league. South High has lost four in a row in their series with the Sentinels, owns a 5-2 record and is 4-0 in the 7-school circuit.

Coach Charley Lattimer's Sentinels have beaten Martinsburg and Westminster and lost to Frederick and North Hagerstown in the C.V.A.L. The Hub City eleven has turned back Westminster, Martinsburg, Allegany and Frederick and needs wins over Fort Hill and North Hagerstown to round out a perfect season in the league.

Never Beat Allegany

Frederick, coached by Jack Molesworth, never has beaten Allegany in five engagements since 1956 but is hopeful of taking the Campers tonight after whipping Fort Hill 13-0 earlier in the campaign. The Cadets occupy the runner-up spot in the league with a 2-1 record and are 2-4 overall. Allegany's defending champions have yet to win in the C.V.A.L. in which they have dropped three games and are 2-4 overall for the season. Frederick's only defeat in the loop came Monday night at the hands of South High in a 13-12 thriller.

Westminster and Martinsburg have league records of 1-2 and 1-3, respectively.

Beall Hosts Panthers

In other Friday night action, Coach Kenny Sims' Charles Town High School Panthers tackle the Beall High School Mountaineers at Frostburg while Valley High School of Masontown, W. Va., faces the Highlanders of Southern High School at Oakland.

Coach Jerry Calhoun's Beall Mountaineers will be angling for win No. 5 when they tackle the Jefferson countians. Beall is 4-2 to date and plays Keyser, Allegany and LaSalle after the Charles Town engagement.

Southern (4-3-0) winds up its season a week from tonight against Petersburg at Oakland.

Keyser At Petersburg

The Keyser at Petersburg game at Petersburg this afternoon is important because Coach "Tack" Clark's Golden Tornado must win to stay in the running for a share of the Potomac Valley Conference title with Romney Pioneers who have concluded their league campaign with a 5-0 mark. Keyser is 4-0 in the P.V.C. and must hurdle Petersburg and Beall to catch the Pioneers. The Vikings are 3-2-1 in the eleven school league.

Franklin plays at Circleville in the other P.V.C. game on tap today.

Moorefield's Yellow Jackets step out of the league to engage Harpers Ferry High School while the West Virginia School for the Deaf entertains Musselman High School at Romney.

Berkeley Springs plays at Hedgesville this afternoon while in nocturnal tilts powerful Chambersburg visits North Hagerstown and Kingwood's Stags are at Parsons.

MAGNESIUM BATS—Dixie Walker (left), former outfielder for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, demonstrates a new magnesium bat for C. A. Howe, president of the Magnesium Association at that group's annual meeting in New York. Magnesium bats, which have a plastic covering, will outlast the traditional wooden bats and have no "sting" when hitting a ball, say manufacturers.

'Big Four' Of Collegiate Football Face Weak Foes

Spartans, Ole Miss, Texas, Alabama Are Heavily Favored

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The "big four" of college football—Michigan State, Mississippi, Texas and Alabama — shouldn't be concerned over whether they can win again this week but only by how much. All are favored by two touchdowns and up over their unfortunate opponents.

The powerful Spartans of Michigan State, who have rolled up 96 points while yielding only 10 in their four straight victories, hope to solidify their No. 1 ranking against Indiana, a team that has lost three out of four, at East Lansing, Mich.

Mississippi, chagrined at being knocked out of first place by Michigan State ten days ago, will spill their wrath against Vanderbilt, an off-and-on Southeastern Conference rival, at Oxford, Miss. The Rebels have crushed five foes already.

Third-ranked Texas, blessed with tremendous player depth, is rated 13½ points better than Rice in the game at Austin and Alabama, which Coach Bear Bryant has turned into a scourge reminiscent of the Tide of the twenties, is 13 over Houston on the latter's field.

Of the first ten ranking teams, Iowa, Louisiana State and Colorado apparently are in for the roughest week-end.

Undefeated Iowa, No. 5, invades Purdue, and is given less than a touchdown edge. LSU, No. 7, tackles a Florida team which has exceptional speed and backfield finesse. Colorado, No. 10 goes to Oklahoma to face the team which once was unbeatable in the Big Eight and until recently stood out as a national power. Colorado is a 6-point choice.

Once-tied Ohio State, No. 6, is favored over Wisconsin in the national television game (ABC at 2:30 p.m. EST) at Madison, Wis. Notre Dame, No. 8, is a solid 10-point pick over Northwestern at South Bend. Georgia Tech, No. 9, is favored by two touchdowns over Tulane at New Orleans.

Army and Navy, moving toward their big service battle Dec. 2, both have opponents who could be troublesome. Army is host at West Point to West Virginia, a team on the rise, and Navy goes to Pittsburgh for a fight with Pitt, a huge, tough team smarting under four defeats.

Top intersectional frays send California against Penn State at State College, Pa., and Illinois against Southern California at Los Angeles.

Leaders Picked To Win Sunday Pro Grid Games

Bears, Colts Battle Is Rated A Toss-Up

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

It will take a pretty big upset to shake division leaders out of first place in the National Football League this Sunday.

The Green Bay Packers, who lead the Western section, and the champion Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants, deadlocked in the East, all are favored by two touchdowns or better to run their records to 6-1.

Green Bay was picked by 22 points over the Minnesota Vikings at Milwaukee; the Eagles were the choice by 14 over the winless Redskins at Washington, and the Giants were favored by 13 at home against the Dallas Cowboys.

There were two evenly - rated games on Sunday's program, pitting the Chicago Bears against the Colts at Baltimore and the Detroit Lions against the Los Angeles Rams on the West Coast. The Cleveland Browns were favored by 4 points over the Cardinals at St. Louis, and the San Francisco Forty-Niners were the choice by 6 over the Steelers at Pittsburgh.

In the American Football League, the unbeaten San Diego Chargers were favored by 20 points at home to make the Denver Broncos their eighth straight victim. The New York Titans were the choice over the Oakland Raiders at San Francisco; the Dallas Texans were favored at home over the Boston Patriots; and the Houston Oilers picked over the Bills at Buffalo, all by a margin of 6 points.

Benny Borgmann, Pro Star, Elected To Hall Of Fame

John J. O'Brien, Andy Phillip Named, Membership Now 44

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Andy Phillip and Benny Borgmann, two outstanding players, and John J O'.Brien, for 25 years president of the American Basketball League, have been elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame.

The honors committee announced the elections Thursday night, increasing Hall of Fame membership to 44. These three and 25 other living players, referees and officials are expected to attend ceremonies here Nov. 6 marking the 70th year of basketball and the 100th anniversary of the birth of its founder, Dr. James A. Naismith.

Phillip was the leader of the famed University of Illinois "Whiz Kids" of the early 1940's. He won All-America honors in 1942 and 1943, leading his team to the Big 10 title in 1943. Phillip later played in the National Basketball Association with the Chicago Stags, Philadelphia Warriors, Fort Wayne Zollner - Pistons and Boston Celtics, and currently is coach of the Chicago Majors.

Played 2,500 Games

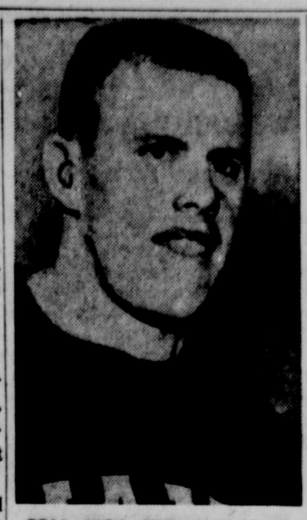
Borgmann, a five-foot, eight-inch Hawthorne, N.J. native, played 2,500 games during a professional basketball career that began in 1917 and ended in 1938.

He coached at St. Michael's and Muhlenberg colleges and has been associated with the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team for the last 30 years, as a minor league player, coach and currently as a scout.

His scoring feats while playing with the original Celtics, George Halas' Chicago Bruins, Kingston, N.Y. Colonials; Paterson, N. J. Crescents; Fort Wayne Hoosiers, and many other teams were estimated to exceed 25,000 points during his 21-year pro career.

Organized Leagues

O'Brien, a Rockville Centre, N. Y. resident, organized the Metropolitan League in 1921 and in 1928 re-aligned the American League so that it featured the game's leading professionals. He retired in 1953 after serving as American League president for 25 years.



REAL KICK FOR HIM—Greg Mather of Navy really gets a kick out of his work—playing football for the Middies. The Navy end already has booted six field goals and 17 extra points to total 35 points, tops in the nation in this division of scoring.

Bruce Battles Valley At Westernport Today For WMI Soccer Lead

Top Defensive And Offensive Teams Collide

Knights Scored 19, Bulldogs Yield One; Opener Was 1-1 Tie

Bruce High School, winner of 12 championships, and Valley High School, a seven times winner in the past eight years, will battle it out today at 4 p.m., in Westernport for first place in the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League.

Coach John C. Meyers' Valley Black Knights lead the league at the present time with a 4-0-1 record but Bruce (3-0-1) will be the first place team if it wins today's game. There will be no change in the standings if Valley triumphs or the game ends in a tie.

First Game 1-1 Draw

In their initial meeting October 6 in Lonaconing, Bruce and Valley fought to a 1-1 deadlock. Danny Young scored on a penalty goal for the Knights and Lowell Taylor did likewise for Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bulldogs.

In view of the fact that Westernport is one of Allegany county's soccer hotbeds today's game will likely attract one of the largest crowds of the season.

Valley has the highest scoring team in the circuit with 19 goals to its credit in five games — 14 from the field and five from the penalty line. Tommy James and Danny Young, Valley's penalty goal kickers, are the top scorers in the loop with six goals each. Valley's wins have been over Mt. Savage 7-3 and 5-0, Flintstone 3-0 and Beall 3-1.

Bruce boasts the best defensive team in the league, having yielded only one goal in four games, three of which were shutouts. The Bulldogs have scored four points, including one penalty goal.

Officials for this crucial game will be George Shaffer and Jack Burner.

Mt. Savage At Beall

Mt. Savage (0-4-1) is scheduled to play Beall (3-2-0) at Frostburg today. The Indians have failed to score a point in their last four games since losing the opener to Valley, 7-3. The Mountaineers are second in the league in scoring with nine goals to their credit.

Ray Ralston and Clifton Van Roby will handle the game at Frostburg.

Richards' Record 6-14 Bill Jesko Pases On Boggs Remembers Day Maphis' Eagles Are 6-0

By C. V. BURNS

TOMMY RICHARDS, the right handed hurler from Carlos, turned in a 6-14 record for the last place Mobile (Ala.) Bears in the Southern Association this year.

"We wound up 30 games in the league cellar but my record could have been 14-6 if I was hurling for a team that could score runs," Tommy stated.

Richards lost six games by the margin of a single run and his team was shut out in several games that he pitched.

Chattanooga won the S.A. pennant this year.

Ernie White, one-time ace southpaw of the St. Louis Cardinals, was Tommy's manager at Mobile.

Richards was with the San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League in spring training before joining up with Mobile.

He is uncertain as to whom he will play with next season.

BILL JESKO, captain of Pitt's 1937 basketball team, died the other day at the age of 45.

Jesko played here in the late 1930s with a team composed of Pittsburgh college stars.

At the time of his death he was cage mentor and Spanish teacher at Baldwin Township High School.

Bill was among the all-time great floormen at South High and had coached at Fayette City and Marion high schools before going to Baldwin. He was a veteran of World War II and is survived by his widow and two daughters at Whitehall.

HERE'S A COINCIDENCE.

The Most Valuable Player Trophy won by Grove when he pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics now appears on display at Valley High School and the figure in a pitching pose is a righthander and not a southpaw, so says Coach John J. Meyers, one of the great portsider's admirers.

MIKE HARVEY, who has looked so good in Allegany High School's backfield this season and is now second in the city scoring race with five touchdowns and one conversion to his credit, is a son of Joseph M. Harvey, the one-time Bruce High School soccer star, who died in July 1960.

Mike is a junior and is a resident of Bowling Green.

BECAUSE of the fact that column rules of a newspaper are not made of rubber and cannot be stretched the three-point goals, adopted by the new American Basketball League, for baskets shot from 25 feet out, will be listed beneath the score by quarters in the box scores.

THE DEATH of Carroll MacMaster, Sr., 65, one of Maryland's best known golf pros, brought back memories to Carroll Boggs, Cumberland Country Club pro, of the day he caddied for MacMaster during the latter's visit here about 29 years ago.

In those days there was no limit to the number of golf clubs and Carroll, who scaled about 108 pounds, took a tumble into a ditch while toting MacMaster's golf bag over the Christie Road course. Boggs says there were about 20 clubs in that bag.

Carroll attended the golf show in Washington Tuesday and states the main topic of conversation was the death of MacMaster, who had been head pro at the Woodholme Country Club, Baltimore, for 27 years.

MacMaster was known to most tournament golfers by his big frame and his inevitable pipe. He was a native of New York State and came to Maryland in 1921 as pro at the Catoctin Country Club, Frederick. "Mac" was at Rolling Road nine years, moved to Hillendale in 1932 and two years later went to Woodholme.

COACH DON MAPHIS, one-time Romney High School athlete, has an undefeated team at Clarke County High School, Berryville, Va., this season.

The Eagles are 6-0 and they are sharing the lead in the District 10, Group 2 race.

They've whipped Strasburg, Berkeley Springs, Central, Luray, Broadway and Turner Ashby.

Maphis was graduated from Romney High in 1949 and played football and basketball there. He also excelled in basketball and baseball at Shepherd College and later was a physical ed teacher in Hampshire county.

PARSONS High School's Panthers up in Tucker county, W. Va., are having one of their worst seasons on the gridiron.

The Panthers are 2-6 and they've really been clobbered in five of the games: 51-6 by UHS of Morgantown, 40-19 by Webster Springs, 38-7 by Masontown, 26-0 by Southern of Oakland and 46-7 by Bridgeport, once coached by Charley Lattimer.

Parsons' only wins are over Thomas' Mountaineers who are 1-7 to date.

WHEN Manager Casey Stengel was asked why he picked Cookie Lavagetto and Solly Hemus as his coaches with the New York Mets for next season, he replied:

"They had good records in 1960. They couldn't have become that stupid in one year."

KEEPS REINS ON PUPILS—Mrs. Jean Ailsa Mulkeen, a golf pro in St. Louis, uses a length of clothesline to teach her students rhythm and timing in their golf swings. "The idea," she says, "of the rope wrapped around the student's waist is to direct his motion, much like you would direct the motion of a horse." Being directed is Jim Weems.

Snead Bids For Tenth W.Va. Open

Field Of 120 Top Golfers Begin Play

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Par is expected to take a beating but old warhorse Sam Snead is determined not to as he opens his bid Friday for a 10th West Virginia Open golf championship.

The 25th tournament, with a field of 120, will be played over the short 5,827-yard Riveria Country Club course near W. Va. 2, near the northern outskirts of Huntington. For Snead and other power drivers, it might turn into a putting contest.

The 49-year-old Snead is not especially noted for his putting ability but he plans to bear down after being a bit embarrassed in two public golf appearances in the state in the past six weeks. He finished third in the state professional tournament at Sistersville and was third in a field of four in an exhibition match at Charleston.

The Open will be over 54 holes, with 18 on Friday, 18 Saturday and the final 18 Sunday. Par at Riviera, one of the region's newer golf courses, is 34-36—70. There are only two par-5 holes.

Snead won his ninth State Open title last year when the tourney was played on another course in Huntington. But he didn't realize it for several hours.

Thinking he had blown his chances with only a so-so final round, Snead departed while Art Wall Jr., one of two other top-flight visiting pros who participated, was still on the course. But Wall had trouble and wound up second to Snead. Arnold Palmer finished third.

Crowe To Scout For Cardinals

Belted 14 Pinch Homers In Majors

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — George Crowe, the greatest home-run pinch hitter in the history of baseball, has signed a contract to scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, it was announced Thursday by General Manager Bing Devine.

The 38-year-old Crowe, recently given his unconditional release as a player by the Charleston, W.Va., club of the International League, a Cardinal affiliate, hold the major league record of 14 pinch homers.

Crowe will make his headquarters at his home in Springfield Gardens, N.Y., but will not be restricted to any area in his scouting.

Crowe spent almost eight years in the National League as a first baseman and in his last two seasons was used primarily as a pinch hitter.

Eight of his pinch homers were hit for the Cardinals — four each in 1959 and 1960. He hit his first for Boston in 1952, one each in 1953 and 1955 for Milwaukee, and three in 1956 for Cincinnati.

His finest year in the big leagues was 1957 when he hit 32 homers and had 92 runs batted in for the Reds.

Pitt Leads Navy, 6-2

Pitt and Navy meet at the Pitt Stadium Saturday in the tenth game of their series. Pitt has won six, Navy two and there has been one scoreless tie. The last time they met was in 1955 when the Middies won, 21-0, in Baltimore Stadium.

Billy Maxwell, Dallas, Tex., and Bob McAllister, Yorba Linda, Calif., finished in a deadlock for second place with 205, two strokes behind the winner, and each got $1,150.

He is uncertain as to whom he will play with next season.

BILL JESKO, captain of Pitt's 1937 basketball team, died the other day at the age of 45.

Jesko played here in the late 1930s with a team composed of Pittsburgh college stars.

At the time of his death he was cage mentor and Spanish teacher at Baldwin Township High School.

Bill was among the all-time great floormen at South High and had coached at Fayette City and Marion high schools before going to Baldwin. He was a veteran of World War II and is survived by his widow and two daughters at Whitehall.

HERE'S A COINCIDENCE.

The Most Valuable Player Trophy won by Grove when he pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics now appears on display at Valley High School and the figure in a pitching pose is a righthander and not a southpaw, so says Coach John J. Meyers, one of the great portsider's admirers.

MIKE HARVEY, who has looked so good in Allegany High School's backfield this season and is now second in the city scoring race with five touchdowns and one conversion to his credit, is a son of Joseph M. Harvey, the one-time Bruce High School soccer star, who died in July 1960.

Mike is a junior and is a resident of Bowling Green.

BECAUSE of the fact that column rules of a newspaper are not made of rubber and cannot be stretched the three-point goals, adopted by the new American Basketball League, for baskets shot from 25 feet out, will be listed beneath the score by quarters in the box scores.

THE DEATH of Carroll MacMaster, Sr., 65, one of Maryland's best known golf pros, brought back memories to Carroll Boggs, Cumberland Country Club pro, of the day he caddied for MacMaster during the latter's visit here about 29 years ago.

In those days there was no limit to the number of golf clubs and Carroll, who scaled about 108 pounds, took a tumble into a ditch while toting MacMaster's golf bag over the Christie Road course. Boggs says there were about 20 clubs in that bag.

Carroll attended the golf show in Washington Tuesday and states the main topic of conversation was the death of MacMaster, who had been head pro at the Woodholme Country Club, Baltimore, for 27 years.

MacMaster was known to most tournament golfers by his big frame and his inevitable pipe. He was a native of New York State and came to Maryland in 1921 as pro at the Catoctin Country Club, Frederick. "Mac" was at Rolling Road nine years, moved to Hillendale in 1932 and two years later went to Woodholme.

COACH DON MAPHIS, one-time Romney High School athlete, has an undefeated team at Clarke County High School, Berryville, Va., this season.

The Eagles are 6-0 and they are sharing the lead in the District 10, Group 2 race.

They've whipped Strasburg, Berkeley Springs, Central, Luray, Broadway and Turner Ashby.

Maphis was graduated from Romney High in 1949 and played football and basketball there. He also excelled in basketball and baseball at Shepherd College and later was a physical ed teacher in Hampshire county.

PARSONS High School's Panthers up in Tucker county, W. Va., are having one of their worst seasons on the gridiron.

The Panthers are 2-6 and they've really been clobbered in five of the games: 51-6 by UHS of Morgantown, 40-19 by Webster Springs, 38-7 by Masontown, 26-0 by Southern of Oakland and 46-7 by Bridgeport, once coached by Charley Lattimer.

Parsons' only wins are over Thomas' Mountaineers who are 1-7 to date.

WHEN Manager Casey Stengel was asked why he picked Cookie Lavagetto and Solly Hemus as his coaches with the New York Mets for next season, he replied:

"They had good records in 1960. They couldn't have become that stupid in one year."

Belted 14 Pinch Homers In Majors

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — George Crowe, the greatest home - run pinch hitter in the history of baseball, has signed a contract to scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, it was announced Thursday by General Manager Bing Devine.

The 38-year-old Crowe, recently given his unconditional release as a player by the Charleston, W.Va., club of the International League, a Cardinal affiliate, hold the major league record of 14 pinch homers.

Crowe will make his headquarters at his home in Springfield Gardens, N.Y., but will not be restricted to any area in his scouting.

Crowe spent almost eight years in the National League as a first baseman and in his last two seasons was used primarily as a pinch hitter.

Eight of his pinch homers were hit for the Cardinals — four each in 1959 and 1960. He hit his first for Boston in 1952, one each in 1953 and 1955 for Milwaukee, and three in 1956 for Cincinnati.

His finest year in the big leagues was 1957 when he hit 32 homers and had 92 runs batted in for the Reds.

Pitt Leads Navy, 6-2

Pitt and Navy meet at the Pitt Stadium Saturday in the tenth game of their series. Pitt has won six, Navy two and there has been one scoreless tie. The last time they met was in 1955 when the Middies won, 21-0, in Baltimore Stadium.

KEEPS REINS ON PUPILS—Mrs. Jean Ailsa Mulkeen, a golf pro in St. Louis, uses a length of clothesline to teach her students rhythm and timing in their golf swings. Snead Bids For Tenth W.Va. Open

Field Of 120 Top Golfers Begin Play

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Par is expected to take a beating but old warhorse Sam Snead is determined not to as he opens his bid Friday for a 10th West Virginia Open golf championship.

The 25th tournament, with a field of 120, will be played over the short 5,827-yard Riveria Country Club course near W. Va. 2 near the northern outskirts of Huntington. For Snead and other power drivers, it might turn into a putting contest.

The 49-year-old Snead is not especially noted for his putting ability but he plans to bear down after being a bit embarrassed in two public golf appearances in the state in the past six weeks. He finished third in the state professional tournament at Sistersville and was third in a field of four in an exhibition match at Charleston.

The Open will be over 54 holes, with 18 on Friday, 18 Saturday and the final 18 Sunday. Par at Riviera, one of the region's newer golf courses, is 34 - 36 — 70. There are only two par-5 holes.

Snead won his ninth State Open title last year when the tourney was played on another course in Huntington. But he didn't realize it for several hours.

Thinking he had blown his chances with only a so-so final round, Snead departed while Art Wall Jr., one of two other top-flight visiting pros who participated, was still on the course. But Wall had trouble and wound up second to Snead. Arnold Palmer finished third.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Phil Rodgers, stocky redhead from La Jolla, Calif., won his first professional golf tournament Thursday when he captured the $15,000 Sahara event with a 54-hole score of 203—nine under par.

Billy Maxwell, Dallas, Tex., and Bob McAllister, Yorba Linda, Calif., finished in a deadlock for second place with 205, two strokes behind the winner, and each got $1,150.

Coach Ed Schwarz last night reported that Bradley Stone may start at quarterback in place of Fred Shank, whose back has been hurting and has been advised to have X-rays taken.

For the first time this season in four home games the Allegany student body will occupy the concrete stands on the west side of the field instead of the wooden bleachers which have been assigned to Frederick.

Pedro Ramos, McCormick Toss Most Home Run

Twins Righthander Threw 39 Gophers

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a good reason why pitchers Pedro Ramos of Minnesota and Mike McCormick of San Francisco had poor won-lost records in the 1961 baseball season. They were too generous with home run serves.

Ramos yielded 39 homers to lead the American League while McCormick topped the National with 33, figures compiled by The Associated Press revealed Thursday.

Ramos, who set an American League record by allowing 43 gopher balls in 1957, has served up 209 homers in seven big league season. The Twins' right-hander also paced the circuit in 1958. He finished the past campaign with 20 defeats and 11 victories.

Gene Conley of Boston was the junior circuit runner-up with 33. He was followed by Gary Bell and Mudcat Grant of Cleveland, with 32 each.

McCormick permitted only 15 homers in 1960 when he had a 15-12 record. In 1961, he won 13 games and lost 16. The Milwaukee Braves were the Giant lefty's chief tormenters. They had eight homers off him followed by Cincinnati with seven.

Lew Burdette of the Braves was right behind the leader with 31 gopher balls. Don Drysdale, Los Angeles was third with 29.

Ramos, who gave up 25 homers in 1960, had the most trouble last season with the new Los Angeles Angels. They tagged him for six while Baltimore had six off his deliveries.

Nellie Fox of the White Sox had his only two homers of the year off Ramos.

T.V. Lark Sixth Horse Selected For Nov. 11 Race

Follows Kelso Into Rich International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — T. V. Lark, a work horse among the thoroughbreds, was chosen Thursday to make up the U.S. team with Kelso in the $100,000 Washington D.C. International on Nov. 11.

T. V. Lark earned his bid to the 10th running of the 1½ mile grass race by winning the Knickerbocker Handicap in New York Wednesday.

The 4-year-old ran the mile and five lengths in 2 minutes, 40 seconds, fastest ever on the grass in America. The previous record was 2:42.

It was the second straight victory for T. V. Lark since a syndicate of Kentucky breeders bought him for $600,000 from Charles McCoy of California.

The Knickerbocker was the fourth victory in 17 races this year for T. V. Lark. His other kscores were in the Santa Catalina Handicap, the Los Angeles Handicap and the Hawthorne Gold Cup.

The entry field for the International now numbers six with more kto come from overseas.

Crosetti Engages Lewis As Attorney

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Crosetti, New York Yankee coach, has engaged attorney J. Norman Lewis in an effort to induce the Major League Players Association to include himself and more than 100 old-timers in their increased pension benefits, it was learned Thursday.

According to Lewis, who was the attorney for the Players Association from 1953 until dismissed in March of 1959, Crosetti was urged to take some action by some 110 former players who might be shut out of a pension increase that already has been agreed upon.

The crux of the controversy is a decision by the Major League Players Association following the 1961 World Series that the forthcoming pension and insurance boost should not apply to those old-timers who already have begun to collect their pensions.

Lewis contends that when the baseball pension program originally was set up, it was agreed that any future increase in benefits would accrue to all who originally were a part of the program.

Lewis blames president John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates, chairman of the pension committee, for inducing the Players Association to "freeze" the old-timers out of the projected boost in benefits.

"This is not the spirit of the thing when I was in there," Lewis said. "The old-timers deserve it just as much as the kids who are coming up. And Galbreath should have seen to it that the oldtimers share in the increased benefits."

Coach Ed Schwarz last night reported that Bradley Stone may start at quarterback in place of Fred Shank, whose back has been hurting and has been advised to have X-rays taken.

For the first time this season in four home games the Allegany student body will occupy the concrete stands on the west side of the field instead of the wooden bleachers which have been assigned to Frederick.

Pedro Ramos, McCormick Toss Most Home Run

Twins Righthander Threw 39 Gophers

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a good reason why pitchers Pedro Ramos of Minnesota and Mike McCormick of San Francisco had poor won-lost records in the 1961 baseball season. They were too generous with home run serves.

Ramos yielded 39 homers to lead the American League while McCormick topped the National with 33, figures compiled by The Associated Press revealed Thursday.

Ramos, who set an American League record by allowing 43 gopher balls in 1957, has served up 209 homers in seven big league season. The Twins' right-hander also paced the circuit in 1958. He finished the past campaign with 20 defeats and 11 victories.

Gene Conley of Boston was the junior circuit runner-up with 33. He was followed by Gary Bell and Mudcat Grant of Cleveland, with 32 each.

McCormick permitted only 15 homers in 1960 when he had a 15-12 record. In 1961, he won 13 games and lost 16. The Milwaukee Braves were the Giant lefty's chief tormenters. They had eight homers off him followed by Cincinnati with seven.

Lew Burdette of the Braves was right behind the leader with 31 gopher balls. Don Drysdale, Los Angeles was third with 29.

Ramos, who gave up 25 homers in 1960, had the most trouble last season with the new Los Angeles Angels. They tagged him for seven while Baltimore had six off his deliveries.

Nellie Fox of the White Sox had his only two homers of the year off Ramos.

Follows Kelso Into Rich International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — T. V. Lark, a work horse among the thoroughbreds, was chosen Thursday to make up the U.S. team with Kelso in the $100,000 Washington D.C. International on Nov. 11.

T. V. Lark earned his bid to the 10th running of the 1½ mile grass race by winning the Knickerbocker Handicap in New York Wednesday.

The 4-year-old ran the mile and five lengths in 2 minutes, 40 seconds, fastest ever on the grass in America. The previous record was 2:42.

It was the second straight victory for T. V. Lark since a syndicate of Kentucky breeders bought him for $600,000 from Charles McCoy of California.

The Knickerbocker was the fourth victory in 17 races this year for T. V. Lark. His other kscores were in the Santa Catalina Handicap, the Los Angeles Handicap and the Hawthorne Gold Cup.

The entry field for 'he International now numbers six with more kto come from overseas.

Crosetti Engages Lewis As Attorney

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Crosetti, New York Yankee coach, has engaged attorney J. Norman Lewis in an effort to induce the Major League Players Association to include himself and more than 100 old-timers in their increased pension benefits, it was learned Thursday.

According to Lewis, who was the attorney for the Players Association from 1953 until dismissed in March of 1959, Crosetti was urged to take some action by some 110 former players who might be shut out of a pension increase that already has been agreed upon.

The crux of the controversy is a decision by the Major League Players Association following the 1961 World Series that the forthcoming pension and insurance boost should not apply to those old-timers who already have begun to collect their pensions.

Lewis contends that when the baseball pension program originally was set up, it was agreed that any future increase in benefits would accrue to all who originally were a part of the program.

Lewis blames president John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates, chairman of the pension committee, for inducing the Players Association to "freeze" the old-timers out of the projected boost in benefits.

"This is not the spirit of the thing when I was in there," Lewis said. "The old-timers deserve it just as much as the kids who are coming up. And Galbreath should have seen to it that the oldtimers share in the increased benefits."

Terp Booters To Play Duke, North Carolina

Maryland Hopes To Extend ACC Streak

COLLEGE PARK (AP)—Maryland's undefeated soccer team travels to North Carolina for Atlantic Coast Conference matches with North Carolina Saturday and Duke Monday.

The Terrapin cross country team, with an upset of defending champion North Carolina in its last meet, take on North Carolina State at Raleigh Saturday.

Coach Doyle Royal's soccer team, runner up for the NCAA championship in 1960 when the Terps lost to St. Louis 3-2 in the finals, have won all eight Atlantic Coast Conference Soccer titles while compiling a 32-0-1 conference record. This year the Terps are 2-0 in the conference with wins over Virginia 3-0 and North Carolina State 10-0.

In addition, the Terps have topped Army 4-3 in double overtime and Penn State 5-3. The West Point Cadets were the only team to top the Terps in regular season action last year.

Under the tutelage of Coach Royal the Terrapins have a 13 year record of 103 wins with 23 losses and 7 ties. The lone tie in conference competition was a 3-3 deadlock with North Carolina State at Raleigh in 1954.

The cross country team has a 3-1 record with wins over Navy, Clemson and North Carolina and a loss to Duke.

Healthy Colts Please Ewbank During Practices

BALTIMORE (AP) — All the Baltimore Colts are healthy, for a change, and Coach Weeb Ewbank said Thursday the difference is noticable in practice.

"For the first time this year we have two complete backfields to alternate," he said. "It makes a difference."

The ability of Jimmy Orr to run in the practices is one of the biggest lifts the Colts gained this week in preparing to meet Chicago Sunday.

Orr has been hurt off and on since the National Football League season started. Coach Ewbank would like to use him as a flanker back now and then to allow better use of Lenny Moore as an inside threat.

In the first couple of games, Orr filled in at left end until Raymond Berry's knee recuperated from surgery. Berry now is reaching his All-Pro performance again to release Orr for more duty in the backfield.

Rams Lose McKeever

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams have lost the services of their No. 1 draft choice, linebacker Marlin McKeever, for at least a year.

Ram physicians announced they have recommended that McKeever not play the remainder of the season because of a face injury suffered in the recent San Francisco Forty-Niner game.

NFL To Meet In Florida Jan. 8

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual meeting of the National Football League will be held the week starting Monday, Jan. 8, at Bal Harbour, Fla., the league office announced Thursday. This will take place two days after the second annual NFL playoff bowl in Miami.

TRIES FOR PASSING GRADE—Only 55 yards short of the 36-year-old season pass receiving mark at USC, end Hal Bedsole holds the All-American certificate presented to Morley Drury, who set the mark during his career at USC. Bedsole had never caught a pass in a football game until last month but now has racked up 326 yards. Portrait in back is of Howard Jones, famed former USC coach.

Terry Bove Rides Pair Of Winners

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Herberto Hinojosa, a big favorite with Laurel race course fans, was in top form on today's second program of the 16-day meeting when he won the $3,800 Chrysanthemum Purse, featured eighth race, with Hill-N-Dale Stable's Bronze Babu.

Atop his second winner of the day, Hinojosa kept Bronze Babu to a strong drive through the stretch and his mount won by a length and a half from Fairy Circle, who was about three lengths in front of War Council, the favorite.

Bronze Babu was second choice and returned $6.60 for $2 upon completing the one mile in 1.38 1/5.

Earlier in the card, apprentice Terry Bove, of Brooklyn, N. Y., rode his first winner at a major track on Deep Love in the fifth race and then came right back to the charmed circle atop Mount Ida in the sixth attraction.

Terry Bove had 16 mounts at Fairgo's 12-day meeting last month but failed to ride a winner.

Caldwell, Jofre Title Match Set

LONDON (AP)—John Caldwell of Britain and Eder Jofre of Brazil, rival holders of the disputed world bantamweight boxing title, Thursday were provisionally matched for a fight to decide who really is champion.

Jofre's manager, Abraham Katzenelson, told newsmen that if Caldwell retains his version of the title against Alphonse Halimi of France next Tuesday, the Caldwell-Jofre fight is on—in London.

Caldwell is recognized as world champion in Europe. Jofre is recognized

Maryland Hopes To Extend ACC Streak

COLLEGE PARK (AP)—Maryland's undefeated soccer team travels to North Carolina for Atlantic Coast Conference matches with North Carolina Saturday and Duke Monday.

The Terrapin cross country team, with an upset of defending champion North Carolina in its last meet, take on North Carolina State at Raleigh Saturday.

Coach Doyle Royal's soccer team, runner up for the NCAA championship in 1960 when the Terps lost to St. Louis 3-2 in the finals, have won all eight Atlantic Coast Conference Soccer titles while compiling a 32-0-1 conference record. This year the Terps are 2-0 in the conference with wins over Virginia 3-0 and North Carolina State 10-0.

In addition, the Terps have topped Army 4-3 in double overtime and Penn State 5-3. The West Point Cadets were the only team to top the Terps in regular season action last year.

Under the tutelage of Coach Royal the Terrapins have a 13 year record of 103 wins with 23 losses and 7 ties. The lone tie in conference competition was a 3-3 deadlock with North Carolina State at Raleigh in 1954.

The cross country team has a 3-1 record with wins over Navy, Clemson and North Carolina and a loss to Duke.

Healthy Colts Please Ewbank During Practices

BALTIMORE (AP) — All the Baltimore Colts are healthy, for a change, and Coach Weeb Ewbank said Thursday the difference is noticable in practice.

"For the first time this year we have two complete backfields to alternate," he said. "It makes a difference."

The ability of Jimmy Orr to run in the practices is one of the biggest lifts the Colts gained this week in preparing to meet Chicago Sunday.

Orr has been hurt off and on since the National Football League season started. Coach Ewbank would like to use him as a flanker back now and then to allow better use of Lenny Moore as an inside threat.

In the first couple of games, Orr filled in at left end until Raymond Berry's knee recuperated from surgery. Berry now is reaching his All-Pro performance again to release Orr for more duty in the backfield.

Laurel Feature To Bronze Babu

Terry Bove Rides Pair Of Winners

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Herberto Hinojosa, a big favorite with Laurel race course fans, was in top form on today's second program of the 16-day meeting when he won the $3,800 Chrysanthemum Purse, featured eighth race, with Hill-N-Dale Stable's Bronze Babu.

Atop his second winner of the day, Hinojosa kept Bronze Babu to a strong drive through the stretch and his mount won by a length and a half from Fairy Circle, who was about three lengths in front of War Council, the favorite.

Bronze Babu was second choice and returned $6.60 for $2 upon completing the one mile in 1.38 1/5.

Earlier in the card, apprentice Terry Bove, of Brooklyn, N. Y., rode his first winner at a major track on Deep Love in the fifth race and then came right back to the charmed circle atop Mount Ida in the sixth attraction.

Bove, who had ridden two winners at the Maryland minor tracks, is under contract to T. J. Kelly, who saddled both winners ridden by the newcomer today.

Terry Bove had 16 mounts at Fairgo's 12-day meeting last month but failed to ride a winner.

Late Buying Spree Gives Stock Market Minor Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks posted a minor gain Thursday thanks to a rush of buying at the close that caused a late ticker tape.

The market opened firmly, continued cautiously higher until about noon when prices slid until the final hour, steadied, and then moved up sharply in the last few minutes.

Credit for the overall good ending was given to a couple of higher earnings reports by two kingpin stocks — Jersey Standard, which nevertheless were several good moves, and at least one that disappointed — Chrysler — which came down from a gain of more than a point to a plus ⅜.

Advances outnumbered declines for the second consecutive day—by 533 over 488 while new 1961 highs rose to 43 from 34 and the number of new lows held even at 30. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks reflected this performance with a gain of 12 cents.

The Dow-Jones industrial average dipped 0.04 to 700.68 with International Nickel, off 2⅛, the big mover. Rails were down 0.26 to 148.62 and utilities rose 0.42 to 129.49.

Late Buying Spree Gives Stock Market Minor Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks posted a minor gain Thursday thanks to a rush of buying at the close that caused a late ticker tape.

The market opened firmly, continued cautiously higher until about noon when prices slid until the final hour, steadied, and then moved up sharply in the last few minutes.

Credit for the overall good ending was given to a couple of higher earnings reports by two kingpin stocks — Jersey Standard, which nevertheless were several good moves, and at least one that disappointed — Chrysler — which came down from a gain of more than a point to a plus ⅜.

Advances outnumbered declines for the second consecutive day—by 533 over 488 while new 1961 highs rose to 43 from 34 and the number of new lows held even at 30. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks reflected this performance with a gain of 12 cents.

The Dow-Jones industrial average dipped 0.04 to 700.68 with International Nickel, off 2⅛, the big mover. Rails were down 0.26 to 148.62 and utilities rose 0.42 to 129.49.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my son, Clarence Lynn Wagoner, Jr., who died 2 years ago today, Oct. 27, 1959.
You left me two years ago, dear one,
Silenced is your voice I loved to hear,
Gone is your face I loved so much,
Gone are your hands I loved to touch.
So often I look at your picture,
Smiling, and you seem to say,
Mother dear, please do not grieve,
I'm only sleeping.
I'll see you all some day.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND SISTER

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my son, Clarence Lynn Wagoner, Jr., who died 2 years ago today, Oct. 27, 1959.
You left me two years ago, dear one,
Silenced is your voice I loved to hear,
Gone is your face I loved so much.
Gone are your hands I loved to touch.
So often I look at your picture,
Smiling, and you seem to say,
Mother dear, please do not grieve,
I'm only sleeping.
I'll see you all some day.
Sadly missed by

Robinson Decides To Fight Greaves

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson decided Thursday to have a return bout with Canadian Wilfie Greaves at Pittsburgh, Dec. 8, and let his widely discussed return fight with young Denny Moyer at New York wait until Jan. 6.

That's what the former middleweight and welterweight champion told Teddy Brenner, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, who had hoped to stage the Robinson-Moyer return scrap at the Garden, Nov. 25 or Dec. 16.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

IT'S JUST about a certainty when Ohio State plays a football game at home that the attendance will be 82,000-plus, no matter the opposition.

Football is king in Columbus, O., the home of the Bucks, but it's still amazing to the visitor that so many of the faithful show up for those games week after week when the team is home.

In the last three years, the popular Buckeyes drew an average of 82,838 for 17 home games, a figure which no other school probably can match. And, since 1954, the Ohio State eleven has drawn an average of 80,000 or better for 31 home games, also slightly spectacular.

The Buckeye figures, over the years, require some totaling. Prior to the three games played this season in the Ohio Stadium, the Bucks had staged 213 games since the horseshoe was opened in October of 1922. And, the average attendance of all those games has been 56,854.

On the road, too, the Ohio State football teams have been box-office biggies. In 122 games away since 1922 the average attendance has been 47,151.

RECENTLY we asked Ohio State officials to explain the ticket situation. A few touches will help one understand the 82,000 crowd each week.

The Ohio Stadium, built in 13 months and completed at a cost of $1,341,000 in 1922, has a capacity of 79,727, which includes 71,345 permanent seats and 8,382 temporary seats.

The ticket take starts with the students, and 20,800 are accounted for here, although Ohio State has about 25,000 students.

Another 10,000 go to faculty and employes and there are 35,000 (that's the limit) season books put up for sale and grabbed up quickly.

The visiting team is guaranteed 3,500 seats, there are alumni to be taken care of and there are 2,000 courtesy tickets given to high school bands etc.

The big total then is reduced to approximately 8,500 individual game tickets to be sold. These, too, go quickly for the home of the Bucks is centrally located in Ohio, drawing from many surrounding towns and such big cities as Cleveland, Akron, Toledo and Cincinnati.

As of August 31, according to Buckeye officials, 97 per cent of approximately 400,000 seats available for the Buckeye home schedule are gone.

THE ALL-TIME one game record for Ohio Stadium is 83,481, set when the Bucks and Purdue battled to a 14-14 tie in 1958. That mark undoubtedly will be broken when Ohio meets Iowa November 4 if any more people can be squeezed in.

Saban Gets Post With Buffalo Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League Thursday appointed Lou Saban, deposed Boston Patriots coach, to the newly-created position of director of player personnel.

The 39-year-old Saban, who took over his new duties immediately, will scout college players in preparation for the next American League draft. Later it will be his responsibility to see that the players drafted are signed.

Morgantown Gridder Tops State Scorers

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Tom Everly of Morgantown St. Francis picked up 31 points Thursday night to move into the lead in the West Virginia High School scoring parade.

Everly led the Frankies to a 41-0 win over Hundred. His scoring spree gave him 125 points for the season, four better than Joe Hamon of Summersville who has an open date this week.

Agajanian Returns

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — The Dallas Texans partially filled the vacancy left by ailing fullback Jack Spikes by signing veteran field goal specialist Ben Agajanian Thursday.

Agajanian, 42, will appear in the Texans game Sunday with Boston. He is a 15-year veteran of professional football. Last year with the Los Angeles Chargers Agajanian kicked 46 of 47 point after touchdown tries, and completed 13 of 24 field goal attempts.

Tri-Towns CC Leaders View Area Problems

PIEDMONT — Chairmen and members of six committees submitted reports at a meeting of the Tri-Towns Community Council Tuesday night in the Piedmont library. Mrs. Arthur Hartman, president, presided.

Ray Crockett, head of the civic improvement committee, offered several suggestions and Dr. Neil Williams, chairman of the road committee, called attention to the need of work on East Hampshire Street and the road at the west end of town, leading to Elk Garden. Attention was also focused on the revision of time for the relocation of Route 135 through Westernport to Luke for a year, and postponing work on Route 36 through Westernport up the Georges Creek.

A report on the questionnaire concerning the buying habits of citizens in the Tri-Towns area was given by Harold Pugh, chairman. Mrs. Hartman stated that forms will be distributed to students in all schools in the area to be taken home for their parents to fill out, and be returned to their teachers.

Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High School, volunteered to have 3,000 forms run off on a mimeograph machine at the school.

Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr., chairman of a long range program for helping the business interests, stated that he and John Larson, of the Community Development Department of the Potomac Edison Company at Hagerstown, toured the area. He presented planning suggestions.

Staggers reviewed projects that would improve the Tri-Towns and Jack Mullen, chairman of the legislative committee, discussed various matters. Mrs. Harry Harshbarger Jr., a member of the recreation committee, also spoke.

The next council meeting will be held November 6 at First Baptist Church, Westernport, after which the committees will convene.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

IT'S JUST ABOUT a certainty when Ohio State plays a football game at home that the attendance will be 82,000-plus, no matter the opposition.

Football is king in Columbus, O., the home of the Bucks, but it's still amazing to the visitor that so many of the faithful show up for those games week after week when the team is home.

In the last three years, the popular Buckeyes drew an average of 82,838 for 17 home games, a figure which no other school probably can match. And, since 1954, the Ohio State eleven has drawn an average of 80,000 or better for 31 home games, also slightly spectacular.

The Buckeye figures, over the years, require some totaling. Prior to the three games played this season in the Ohio Stadium, the Bucks had staged 213 games since the horseshoe was opened in October of 1922. And, the average attendance of all those games has been 56,854.

On the road, too, the Ohio State football teams have been box-office biggies. In 122 games away since 1922 the average attendance has been 47,151.

RECENTLY we asked Ohio State officials to explain the ticket situation. A few touches will help one understand the 82,000 crowd each week.

The Ohio Stadium, built in 13 months and completed at a cost of $1,341,000 in 1922, has a capacity of 79,727, which includes 71,345 permanent seats and 8,382 temporary seats.

Ohio Stadium . . . packed house as usual

The ticket take starts with the students, and 20,800 are accounted for here, although Ohio State has about 25,000 students.

Another 10,000 go to faculty and employes and there are 35,000 (that's the limit) season books put up for sale and grabbed up quickly.

The visiting team is guaranteed 3,500 seats, there are alumni to be taken care of and there are 2,000 courtesy tickets given to high school bands etc.

The big total then is reduced to approximately 8,500 individual game tickets to be sold. These, too, go quickly for the home of the Bucks is centrally located in Ohio, drawing from many surrounding towns and such big cities as Cleveland, Akron, Toledo and Cincinnati.

As of August 31, according to Buckeye officials, 97 per cent of approximately 400,000 seats available for the Buckeye home schedule are gone.

THE ALL-TIME one game record for Ohio Stadium is 83,481, set when the Bucks and Purdue battled to a 14-14 tie in 1958. That mark undoubtedly will be broken when Ohio meets Iowa November 4 if any more people can be squeezed in.

Tri-Towns CC Leaders View Area Problems

PIEDMONT — Chairmen and members of six committees submitted reports at a meeting of the Tri-Towns Community Council Tuesday night in the Piedmont library. Mrs. Arthur Hartman, president, presided.

Ray Crockett, head of the civic improvement committee, offered several suggestions and Dr. Neil Williams, chairman of the road committee, called attention to the need of work on East Hampshire Street and the road at the west end of town, leading to Elk Garden. Attention was also focused on the revision of time for the relocation of Route 135 through Westernport to Luke for a year, and postponing work on Route 36 through Westernport up the Georges Creek.

A report on the questionnaire concerning the buying habits of citizens in the Tri-Towns area was given by Harold Pugh, chairman. Mrs. Hartman stated that forms will be distributed to students in all schools in the area to be taken home for their parents to fill out, and be returned to their teachers.

Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High School, volunteered to have 3,000 forms run off on a mimeograph machine at the school.

Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr., chairman of a long range program for helping the business interests, stated that he and John Larson, of the Community Development Department of the Potomac Edison Company at Hagerstown, toured the area. He presented planning suggestions.

Staggers reviewed projects that would improve the Tri-Towns and Jack Mullen, chairman of the legislative committee, discussed various matters. Mrs. Harry Harshbarger Jr., a member of the recreation committee, also spoke.

The next council meeting will be held November 6 at First Baptist Church, Westernport, after which the committees will convene.

Need For Sound Planning Cited At Convention

225 Are Here For Municipal Meeting

The need for sound planning in all phases of city administration was stressed during talks which featured yesterday afternoon's general session of the Maryland Municipal League.

Some 225 delegates and their guests representing 133 Maryland municipalities are here for the three-day meeting.

James J. O'Donnell, director of the Maryland Department of Planning, said more and more Maryland municipalities are becoming interested in planning, and predicted the trend toward basing future growth on sound planning will increase.

The open space problems said Richard Ives, director of the Community Development Branch of the Urban Renewal Authority, is not a shortage of open space but of the ability "to organize the open space we now have."

He said seven cities and 11 counties in Maryland have used grants from the Urban Assistance Program toward this purpose.

The federal agency reported recently that it has allotted $34,050 to the State Planning Department toward the cost of the preparation of a comprehensive plan for the City of Cumberland.

Expects Improvement

Financial pressures on local governments will increase if the trend toward urbanization continues, said Joseph F. Clark, executive director, Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Continued improvements in techniques of public administration are to be expected, he added. Trends in local administration cited were the move of many municipalities toward program budgeting for both operating and long term financing.

Local officials are beginning to realize, she said, that sound fiscal policies require the adoption of programs which correlate operating budgets with capital budgets on more than a year to year basis.

Sees Fine Future

The last decade has brought great developments in the field of municipal administration and the next decade promises to be even more fruitful, Walter A. Schreiber, city manager of Rockville said.

He listed the adoption of job classification and pay plans, merit pay systems and in-service training of personnel, adoption of budget and financial systems understandable to the public the adoption of purchasing systems which can save up to 30 per cent a year on city purchases as noteworthy developments in the field of municipal administration.

Welcomes Delegates

Mayor J. Edwin Keech welcomed members of the League to Cumberland yesterday afternoon as the first general session got under way at City Hall auditorium.

128 State Units Seek Larger Appropriations

22 More Agencies To Submit Requests

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although some of the largest spending proposals have not been submitted, budget requests of state agencies for fiscal 1963 already total nearly $33 million more than their current appropriations.

The State Budget Department said Thursday 128 Maryland agencies have requested $227.3 million, compared with $194.5 million the same agencies received for the fiscal year which started last July 1.

The State Roads Commission and the Department of Education, whose spending programs comprise a large part of the state's annual budget, are among 22 agencies whose requests for 1963 have not been submitted.

Those two agencies were appropriated a combined total of $218 million—or more than half of the entire state budget—for the current fiscal year.

The SRC received some $118 million in federal and special funds, and some $100 million in general and federal funds was approved by the 1961 legislature for aid to education.

The appropriations for all state agencies and departments for fiscal 1962 totaled $524,539,839.

Some of the largest requests submitted so far are $34.9 million by the Department of Public Welfare, $32.4 million by the State Health Department, $25.9 million by the Department of Mental Hygience and $22.6 million by the University of Maryland.

The increases over current appropriations are $11.8 million for welfare, $5.2 million for health, $2.4 million for mental hygiene and $1.6 for the university.

Requests for general funds total $154,687,564 so far, compared with $128,042,331 the same agencies received this year. General funds are derived from income and sales taxes.

Special fund requests by the 128 agencies total $33,551,131, a $4.3 million increase over the amount they received this year. Special funds include the revenues derived from fees for licenses and permits.

The agencies have requested $39,135,494 in federal funds, nearly $4 million more than the amount of appropriations from that source this year.

Most of the Department of Education's request comes from general funds, while the SRC's appropriation is largely composed of federal funds.

Florida Man Asphyxiated Near Bedford

BEDFORD, Pa. (UPI)—A retired fireman died of asphyxiation and his wife was reported in critical condition Thursday from sulphur-dioxide fumes which had leaked from a refrigerator in the couple's roamer while they slept near Breezewood.

Bedford County Deputy Coroner Ralph Mickle identified the victim as Charles Saltmarsh, 67, of Fort Pierce, Fla. The victim's wife, Helen, was reported unconscious and in critical condition at Bedford Memorial Hospital.

Mickle said the couple was found Thursday morning by Mrs. Norman Duval, on whose property the Saltmarsh's had parked their roamer, a truck-like vehicle with living quarters built into the bed of the truck.

Saltmarsh and his wife had just returned from Jacksonville, Me., where they had been visiting friends and stopped at the Duval's, who knew the couple, before continuing their trip back to Fort Pierce.

Duval told Mickle that Saltmarsh had mentioned that the refrigerator in the roamer was not working properly. Duval said the victim had worked on the refrigerator before retiring Wednesday night.

31 Area Roads Designated Snow Emergency Routes

Vehicles Must Have Chains, Winter Treads

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission, working with county road officials, has designated 31 highways in Western Maryland as snow emergency routes.

The designated roads, which will be posted with red and white signs, have been approved by the highway officials of Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.

More than 200 such routes throughout the state will be posted this winter to help speed traffic movement during snow storms.

A bill approved by the 1961 legislature authorized the SRC to establish the emergency routes — with the approval of local officials, and authorized a fine of $10 to $25 against persons traveling the highways without snow tires or chains during an emergency.

The superintendent of the State Police will declare emergency traveling conditions.

The list of highways to be posted was made public here Thursday at a meetting of county and state road officials. Among other things, plans were mapped for:

1. Alerting the public and county road crews in the event of emergency conditions.

2. Coordinating the snow removal efforts of the SRC, the 23 counties, Baltimore City and the District of Columbia.

3. The use of snow and ice removal materials—sand, chemicals and abrasives, and hiring of equipment.

Most of the materials for this winter already have been distributed to the counties and stockpiled at strategic locations, the SRC said.

Snow removal last winter cost the SRC $2.4 million, and several jurisdictions, including Baltimore City, expended more money than had been appropriated for snow removal purposes.

The emergency routes in Western Maryland are:

ALLEGANY COUNTY—U.S. 40 from the Garrett County line to the Washington County line (excluding Cumberland), Route 220 from the Pennsylvania line to the West Virginia line (excluding Cumberland), Route 51 from Cumbeland to the West Virginia line, and Route 135 from the Garrett County line to McCoole.

A film will also be shown by Mr. Houghten. Some 75 persons have indicated they plan to attend the dinner program.

Moreland Trial Is Expected To End Today

Defendant Will Return To Stand

William Moreland, 21, of the Pin Oak section of Hampshire County, W. Va., who went on trial yesterday morning in Circuit Court in Romney on a charge of the attempted rape of an 11-year-old girl last June, took the stand in his own defense shortly before court adjourned about 4:15 p.m.

He will take the stand again this morning, according to Loudoun L. Thompson, prosecuting attorney of Hampshire County, who is presenting the state's case.

Attorney for the defendant is Ralph Haines. Judge H. Gus Muntzing is presiding at the trial, which is expected to conclude this morning.

The men and women jurors are expected to get the case late this morning or early this afternoon.

About 2 p.m. yesterday the state rested its case after eight witnesses. About five defense witnesses took the stand before court adjourned.

Moreland, who was arrested June 11, the day after the girl was reported to have been attacked while attending a festival at Levels School, was detained in the county jail and later was released under $2,500 bond.

Brother Ginevan, 27, who also lives in the Pin Oak area, was sentenced to five to 20 years in prison for the rape of the same girl.

On September 6 a petit jury found Ginevan guilty of rape but recommended mercy. Later Judge Muntzing passed sentence and recommended Ginevan serve his time at the Medium Security Prison in Huttonsville.

While a prisoner in the county jail, Ginevan escaped on October 8 and was later arrested October 15 in Leesburg, Va.

Officials Urged To Help Combat CD Defeatism

Shelters Termed Vital In Attack

Maryland municipal officials yesterday were urged by Col. John Matthews, acting director of Maryland's Civil Defense Agency, to "help discount the defeatist attitude that nothing can survive a nuclear attack."

In an afternoon address before the 14th annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League, Col. Matthews said the greatest single means of saving lives in case of a nuclear attack is the fallout shelter.

As proof, he cited a Congressional hearing which concluded that in a hypothetical but reasonable situation, adequate shelters could reduce casualties from 25 per cent of an area's population to three per cent.

He said the effects of a nuclear attack are well known but "have been exaggerated out of all reason" and that civic leaders should discourage wild ideas.

Suggests Plan

Municipalities, he said, can do these things to prepare for an enemy attack:

Make sure they know their county CD plan.

Encourage the construction of fallout shelters, the "greatest single means of saving lives."

See that the warning system of the county is adequate.

See that schools have a plan.

Know what to expect from a nuclear attack.

See that city employes know what their job will be in case of an emergency such as a nuclear attack.

Municipalities can expect the Maryland Civil Defense Agency, he said, to:

Give every moment of warning available.

Pass on all information available.

Give advice on what action should be taken.

Advise, in case of a hit, what aid is available from nearby areas.

Supervise the training of CD leaders.

Arrange for matching funds for CD equipment.

APATHY LESSONS

He noted an increased interest in the subject of Civil Defense, saying that "not quite so many people go to sleep while we talk about it."

Col. Matthews said news of an attack would be spread in Maryland to seven warning points, one of them in Cumberland, and that the eighth will be established in Elkton within a few days.

In response to a query from the floor as to the short warning time in case of an attack by missiles, he said be believes any attack facing America would be an all-out attack, including the use of manned planes, and that "we can expect as much warning time as with planes."

Some 225 delegates and their guests representing 133 Maryland municipalities are here for the three-day meeting.

James J. O'Donnell, director of the Maryland Department of Planning, said more and more Maryland municipalities are becoming interested in planning, and predicted the trend toward basing future growth on sound planning will increase.

The open space problems said Richard Ives, director of the Community Development Branch of the Urban Renewal Authority, is not a shortage of open space but of the ability "to organize the open space we now have."

He said seven cities and 11 counties in Maryland have used grants from the Urban Assistance Program toward this purpose.

The federal agency reported recently that it has allotted $34,050 to the State Planning Department toward the cost of the preparation of a comprehensive plan for the City of Cumberland.

Expects Improvement

Financial pressures on local governments will increase if the trend toward urbanization continues, said Joseph F. Clark, executive director, Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Continued improvements in techniques of public administration are to be expected, he added. Trends in local administration cited were the move of many municipalities toward program budgeting for both operating and long term financing.

Local officials are beginning to realize, she said, that sound fiscal policies require the adoption of programs which correlate operating budgets with capital budgets on more than a year to year basis.

Sees Fine Future

The last decade has brought great developments in the field of municipal administration and the next decade promises to be even more fruitful, Walter A. Schreiber, city manager of Rockville said.

He listed the adoption of job classification and pay plans, merit pay systems and in-service training of personnel, adoption of budget and financial systems understandable to the public the adoption of purchasing systems which can save up to 30 per cent a year on city purchases as noteworthy developments in the field of municipal administration.

128 State Units Seek Larger Appropriations

22 More Agencies To Submit Requests

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although some of the largest spending proposals have not been submitted, budget requests of state agencies for fiscal 1963 already total nearly $33 million more than their current appropriations.

The State Budget Department said Thursday 128 Maryland agencies have requested $227.3 million, compared with $194.5 million the same agencies received for the fiscal year which started last July 1.

The State Roads Commission and the Department of Education, whose spending programs comprise a large part of the state's annual budget, are among 22 agencies whose requests for 1963 have not been submitted.

Those two agencies were appropriated a combined total of $218 million—or more than half of the entire state budget—for the current fiscal year.

The SRC received some $118 million in federal and special funds, and some $100 million in general and federal funds was approved by the 1961 legislature for aid to education.

The appropriations for all state agencies and departments for fiscal 1962 totaled $524,539,839.

Some of the largest requests submitted so far are $34.9 million by the Department of Public Welfare, $32.4 million by the State Health Department, $25.9 million by the Department of Mental Hygience and $22.6 million by the University of Maryland.

The increases over current appropriations are $11.8 million for welfare, $5.2 million for health, $2.4 million for mental hygiene and $1.6 for the university.

Requests for general funds total $154,687,564 so far, compared with $128,042,331 the same agencies received this year. General funds are derived from income and sales taxes.

Special fund requests by the 128 agencies total $33,551,131, a $4.3 million increase over the amount they received this year. Special funds include the revenues derived from fees for licenses and permits.

The agencies have requested $39,135,494 in federal funds, nearly $4 million more than the amount of appropriations from that source this year.

Most of the Department of Education's request comes from general funds, while the SRC's appropriation is largely composed of federal funds.

Florida Man Asphyxiated Near Bedford

BEDFORD, Pa. (UPI)—A retired fireman died of asphyxiation and his wife was reported in critical condition Thursday from sulphur-dioxide fumes which had leaked from a refrigerator in the couple's roamer while they slept near Breezewood.

Bedford County Deputy Coroner Ralph Mickle identified the victim as Charles Saltmarsh, 67, of Fort Pierce, Fla. The victim's wife, Helen, was reported unconscious and in critical condition at Bedford Memorial Hospital.

Mickle said the couple was found Thursday morning by Mrs. Norman Duval, on whose property the Saltmarsh's had parked their roamer, a truck-like vehicle with living quarters built into the bed of the truck.

Saltmarsh and his wife had just returned from Jacksonville, Me., where they had been visiting friends and stopped at the Duval's, who knew the couple, before continuing their trip back to Fort Pierce.

Duval told Mickle that Saltmarsh had mentioned that the refrigerator in the roamer was not working properly. Duval said the victim had worked on the refrigerator before retiring Wednesday night.

31 Area Roads Designated Snow Emergency Routes

Vehicles Must Have Chains, Winter Treads

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission, working with county road officials, has designated 31 highways in Western Maryland as snow emergency routes.

The designated roads, which will be posted with red and white signs, have been approved by the highway officials of Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.

More than 200 such routes throughout the state will be posted this winter to help speed traffic movement during snow storms.

A bill approved by the 1961 legislature authorized the SRC to establish the emergency routes — with the approval of local officials, and authorized a fine of $10 to $25 against persons traveling the highways without snow tires or chains during an emergency.

The superintendent of the State Police will declare emergency traveling conditions.

The list of highways to be posted was made public here Thursday at a meetting of county and state road officials. Among other things, plans were mapped for:

1. Alerting the public and county road crews in the event of emergency conditions.

2. Coordinating the snow removal efforts of the SRC, the 23 counties, Baltimore City and the District of Columbia.

3. The use of snow and ice removal materials—sand, chemicals and abrasives, and hiring of equipment.

Most of the materials for this winter already have been distributed to the counties and stockpiled at strategic locations, the SRC said.

Snow removal last winter cost the SRC $2.4 million, and several jurisdictions, including Baltimore City, expended more money than had been appropriated for snow removal purposes.

Moreland Trial Is Expected To End Today

Defendant Will Return To Stand

William Moreland, 21, of the Pin Oak section of Hampshire County, W. Va., who went on trial yesterday morning in Circuit Court in Romney on a charge of the attempted rape of an 11-year-old girl last June, took the stand in his own defense shortly before court adjourned about 4:15 p.m.

He will take the stand again this morning, according to Loudoun L. Thompson, prosecuting attorney of Hampshire County, who is presenting the state's case.

Attorney for the defendant is Ralph Haines. Judge H. Gus Muntzing is presiding at the trial, which is expected to conclude this morning.

The men and women jurors are expected to get the case late this morning or early this afternoon.

About 2 p.m. yesterday the state rested its case after eight witnesses. About five defense witnesses took the stand before court adjourned.

Moreland, who was arrested June 11, the day after the girl was reported to have been attacked while attending a festival at Levels School, was detained in the county jail and later was released under $2,500 bond.

Brother Ginevan, 27, who also lives in the Pin Oak area, was sentenced to five to 20 years in prison for the rape of the same girl.

On September 6 a petit jury found Ginevan guilty of rape but recommended mercy. Later Judge Muntzing passed sentence and recommended Ginevan serve his time at the Medium Security Prison in Huttonsville.

While a prisoner in the county jail, Ginevan escaped on October 8 and was later arrested October 15 in Leesburg, Va.

Officials Urged To Help Combat CD Defeatism

Shelters Termed Vital In Attack

Maryland municipal officials yesterday were urged by Col. John Matthews, acting director of Maryland's Civil Defense Agency, to "help discount the defeatist attitude that nothing can survive a nuclear attack."

In an afternoon address before the 14th annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League, Col. Matthews said the greatest single means of saving lives in case of a nuclear attack is the fallout shelter.

As proof, he cited a Congressional hearing which concluded that in a hypothetical but reasonable situation, adequate shelters could reduce casualties from 25 per cent of an area's population to three per cent.

He said the effects of a nuclear attack are well known but "have been exaggerated out of all reason" and that civic leaders should discourage wild ideas.

Suggests Plan

Municipalities, he said, can do these things to prepare for an enemy attack:

Make sure they know their county CD plan.

Encourage the construction of fallout shelters, the "greatest single means of saving lives."

See that the warning system of the county is adequate.

See that schools have a plan.

Know what to expect from a nuclear attack.

See that city employes know what their job will be in case of an emergency such as a nuclear attack.

Municipalities can expect the Maryland Civil Defense Agency, he said, to:

Give every moment of warning available.

Pass on all information available.

Give advice on what action should be taken.

Advise, in case of a hit, what aid is available from nearby areas.

Supervise the training of CD leaders.

APATHY LESSONS

He noted an increased interest in the subject of Civil Defense, saying that "not quite so many people go to sleep while we talk about it."

Col. Matthews said news of an attack would be spread in Maryland to seven warning points, one of them in Cumberland, and that the eighth will be established in Elkton within a few days.

In response to a query from the floor as to the short warning time in case of an attack by missiles, he said be believes any attack facing America would be an all-out attack, including the use of manned planes, and that "we can expect as much warning time as with planes."
